Soviet Mooncraft Fails In Landing Try, Belief

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet spacecraft Lunik 5 hit the moon Wednesday night but apparently failed to make the expected soft landing that would have put the Soviet Union at least four months ahead of the United States in the lunar race.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, announced that the 3,250-pound spaceship landed in the area of the Sea of Clouds at 10:10 p.m. (2:10 p.m. Eastern Standard time), ending its three-day flight five minutes ahead of schedule.

"During the flight and the approach of the station to the moon a great deal of information was obtained which is necessary for the further elaboration of a system for soft landing on the moon's surface," Tass concluded.

Tass earlier had said that Lunik 5 would test for the first time elements of a soft-landing system. This was taken to indicate that the Soviets planned to land the spacecraft intact and that it would then radio back information from the moon's surface.

The landing report seemed the closest thing to an official admission to failure in the Soviet space program since the first spudnik made its trail-blazing flight eight years ago. By saying information was sent back only in the approach, Tass indicated that the spacecraft had failed to lower itself gently onto the moon. This is the next vital step before a man can be landed on the lunar surface.

Earlier moon shots by the Soviet Union and the United States have either crashed into the moon or passed by it.

Scientists have said a soft lunar landing would require braking by retrorockets to halt the descent of a spacecraft before impact. Sir Bernard Lovell of Britain's Jodrell Bank Radio Observatory commented: "We suspect, and it is nothing more than suspicion at the moment, that the retrorockets in the Russian moon rocket may have failed to fire."

Western observers suggested that the Tass reference to obtaining information for "the further elaboration" of a soft-landing system meant the Soviets had discovered what went wrong and hoped to avoid the trouble next time.

Teacher Is Sued For Bawling-Out

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — How much does it hurt a teenage girl to get a severe—and allegedly profane—bawling out from the teacher for giggling in high school choir practice?

About $250,000 worth, say fathers of Christina Sotera, 16, and Cynthia DiSina, 15, in damage suits filed Wednesday in Lake County Common Pleas Court against Michael Lenenski, Wickliffe High School music teacher. Each suit asks $250,000. The suits said, "The girls were held up to ridicule by their classmates and caused grievous mental sufferings" because Lenenski stopped choir practice and "intentionally and maliciously" called out profane language "because the girls giggled."

Dominican Rebels Hint Accord Ahead

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — A spokesman for the Dominican rebels indicated Wednesday that a settlement with the rival military-civilian junta may be near. But he held out for dismissal of some leading military men backing the junta.

"There's every reason to hope we are near a settlement," said the rebel foreign minister, Jotín Cury. He spoke after a conference between Col. Francisco Caamaño Deno, the rebel leader, and two members of the peace commission of the Organization of American States, Ricardo C. Colombo of Argentina and Carlos García Bauer of Guatemala.

Cury added that a peaceful solution depends on the dismissal of some key officers backing the junta. The rebels' chief target is Brig. Gen. Elias Wessin y Wessin, who led the resistance to the revolt.

Six of eight high-ranking officers removed by the junta in a peace move arrived in Puerto Rico aboard a Dominican navy frigate. But Caamaño said previously their dismissal was not enough to satisfy him.

Latin-American diplomatic circles in Washington reported a broadly based interim government embracing both government and rebel leaders may be in sight. But Cury, speaking to newsmen, ruled out a coalition government.

3 Officers Plan Return Of Jemison

PONTIAC, Ill. (AP) — Three Columbus, Ohio, policemen were expected here today to return a onetime mental patient to Ohio, where he faces first-degree murder charges in the shooting of his wife and her former boss.

Richard Jemison, captured without a struggle at a road block on busy U. S. 66 Wednesday, has waived extradition to Ohio. Columbus Detective Capt. Tom Sawyer said he planned to send extradition papers with the officers, however, in case Jemison decides to fight his return.

Capture of the 56-year-old Jemison was set up by a sharp-eyed Illinois state trooper who spotted the fugitive while cruising along the busy highway on a routine patrol.

A search of Jemison's car yielded a .38-caliber revolver. Six bullets for it were found in the pocket of Jemison's coat. Jemison had been the object of an intense search since John Lyman and Robert Aylor, were gunned down in a busy downtown Columbus drugstore where Jemison's wife, Virginia, 50, formerly worked.

Lyman, manager of the store, died in a hospital six hours after the Monday shooting. Aylor, a district manager for the drugstore chain, remains in poor condition with bullet wounds in the stomach.

Jemison's wife's body was found in the couple's home Tuesday morning.

Mom OKs Girl's Theft from Dad

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — Charged with stealing $400,000 from her father at her mother's bidding, the brilliant daughter of a wealthy Greenville manufacturer is fighting extradition to South Carolina.

Mary Jane Hollingsworth Farrell, 19, whose IQ is 183, surrendered to authorities in Miami, Fla., Wednesday but refused to waive extradition.

Mrs. Farrell, a graduate of the University of Miami at the age of 16, is charged with housebreaking and grand larceny in the tangled case.

Solicitor (prosecutor) B.O. Thomason Jr. said the total amount taken from an executive restroom at the John D. Hollingsworth plant April 6, 1964, was around $400,000 but "may reach $550,000." None of it has been recovered.

Her mother, Eula Bennett Hollingsworth, is charged with housebreaking, grand larceny and conspiracy. She is free on $15,000 bond and is in a Greenville hospital listed only as a "medical patient."

Both women were implicated in the theft by Jeffrey Bruce

Farrell, 21, in Greenville General Sessions Court Monday. He pleaded guilty to the theft and received a five-year prison term, suspended to four years probation.

Farrell testified Mrs. Hollingsworth, estranged from her husband since January of 1964, had promised him $100,000 to carry out the theft but paid him only $6,000. He said she supplied him with keys to the Hollingsworth plant and Mrs. Farrell, his sister-in-law, accompanied him.

Philip Madina, who was Farrell's lawyer and now is representing Mary Jane Farrell, challenged the charges of a theft at the closely guarded textile machinery plant.

Madina cited a partnership suit Mrs. Hollingsworth filed against her husband after their separation and noted the theft of the money was not reported until this past January, months after the alleged burglary.

Thomason said the partnership suit was terminated but admitted Hollingsworth did not report the theft of $400,000 until January. A camera, papers and other valuables were the only items reported stolen after the April burglary.

New Scientific Service Urged

Weather, Geodetic Merger Suggested

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson proposed today the consolidation of the Weather Bureau and the Coast and Geodetic Survey to create a new agency to be known as the Environmental Science Service Administration.

He said the consolidation "will mark a significant step forward in the continued search by the federal government to meet the needs of the nation for environmental science services."

"The organizational improvements made possible by the reorganization plan will enhance our ability to develop an adequate warning system for the severe hazards of nature — for hurricanes, tornadoes, floods, earthquakes and seismic seawaves, which have proved so disastrous to the nation in recent years," Johnson said.

The consolidation proposal, known as Reorganization Plan No. 2 of 1965, was sent to Congress by the President. It will become effective automatically unless the House or the Senate vetoes it within 60 legislative days.

Johnson's first reorganization plan of the year involved the Bureau of Customs. In it, he proposed to put all the bureau's jobs under the merit system. Johnson said the new administration will permit the federal government to provide better environmental information to vital segments of the nation's economy — agriculture, transportation, communications, and industry.

He also told Congress the reorganization will mean better services to other federal departments and agencies, including those concerned with national defense, the exploration of outer space, the management of mineral and water resources, the protection of the public health against environmental pollution, and the preservation of wilderness and recreation areas.

Liberals Cheer Tougher Voting Rights Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Approval by the House Judiciary Committee of a right-to-vote bill that includes a total ban on poll taxes as a voting requirement in any election cheered congressional liberals today.

The committee acted Wednesday after rejecting, 19 to 13, an attempt to substitute the administration's compromise poll-tax approach accepted Tuesday by the Senate.

Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., 77, the committee chairman, led the fight against the administration amendment and carried most Northern Democrat with him.

Caller said the committee's voice-vote approval of the bill was overwhelming. He called it a good bill and predicted acceptance by the House.

As finally approved, the committee voted to recommend passage of administration provisions to suspend literacy tests and authorize federal voter registration in much of the South.

"I think a bill of this character is epoch making," Celler said. "It's a tough bill."

In the Senate, a new and unsuccessful effort to limit debate caused concern and drew a tongue-in-cheek prediction from Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen.

Mindful that 67 amendments remain to be considered by the word-weary senators, Dirksen ventured that before the measure is finally acted upon: "We will commune with the Hallowe'en witches, eat our Thanksgiving turkey and trim our Christmas trees here."

The Senate refused Tuesday, by a four-vote margin, to accept an outright ban on poll taxes. Four states — Texas, Virginia, Mississippi and Alabama — require their voters to pay the taxes in state and local elections. The federal poll tax was outlawed by the 24th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

The Senate-approved administration compromise would enable the attorney general to go into federal court with a finding by Congress that there is evidence that the poll tax has been used to discriminate.

Wednesday, the Senate turned down an amendment by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., to let federal court in the South rule on state efforts to escape the terms of the voting-rights bill. The vote to reject was 62 to 28.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield failed in his effort to limit the time for considering the 67 pending amendments when Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., blocked the unanimous consent required.

Old Soldier, 103, Receives Medal

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP) — Tears welled in the eyes of Simpson Mann, 103, as he received the first of the 11 campaign medals being awarded to the 11 remaining men who fought in the Army against the Indians on the Western frontier.

"I'm proud to be the man pinning this medal to your blouse," said James F. Haile, director of the Wadsworth Veterans Administration Hospital.

"I'm very proud to receive this medal," said Mann, almost inaudibly.

The little ceremony was in Mann's room Wednesday.

Back in the late 1880s, he was a private in Troop F, 9th U.S. Cavalry. He is the oldest of the 11 survivors of the Indian campaigns.

New Drive Planned for Apportioning

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Signs of an intensive second effort to reapportion the Ohio House before intervention by the federal courts have appeared in the 106th General Assembly.

Senate Majority Leader Theodore M. Gray, R-Miami, said Wednesday hearings will begin next week on four upper chamber proposals.

At the same time, House Majority Leader Robert F. Reckman, R - Hamilton, introduced a new plan as a substitute for the one defeated by voters in the May 4 primary.

Gray said the four Senate State Government Committee, before the Civil Service and Elections Committee.

They include one plan by Senate Democratic Leader Frank W. King, D-Lucas and others by Sens. Robin Turner, R-Seneca; Max Dennis, R-Wilmington, and Jim Thorpe, R-Stark.

King's proposal spells out a specific plan for submission to Ohio voters while the others seek constitutional revision allowing the state to shape House districts on factors other than population.

New Johnson Maneuver Seen in Asian Strategy

By JOHN HIGHTOWER

AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson apparently initiated a new maneuver on the diplomatic front of the Vietnamese war today in drawing a sharp distinction between the interests of North Viet Nam and those of Communist China in continuing the conflict.

Johnson evidently hopes by this means to encourage North Vietnamese interest in bringing the war to a close by strengthening any element in that country's leadership which may favor peace instead of prolonged struggle. Johnson implied that North Viet Nam's ultimate survival is at stake, saying that for that country continuation of the war in the absence of peace talks "means only damage without conquest."

One result of Johnson's maneuver also could be to provide some better answer to the critical question which troubles U.S. policymakers: Who is really behind the war in Viet Nam and who really has the power to make peace?

The United States began bombing North Viet Nam three months ago. Top officials say

Peking's Aim To Discredit U.S. Is Decried

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said today the aim of Communist China "is to erode and discredit America's ability to help to prevent Chinese domination over all of Asia," but "in this they shall never succeed."

Johnson threw down the gauntlet to the Red Chinese in a television-radio address on American efforts in Viet Nam. The President prepared his talk for a meeting with editorial cartoonists in the East Room of the White House.

Repeating his offer to engage in unconditional discussions designed to end the Viet Nam war, Johnson said this would "clearly be in the interest of North Viet Nam."

But he said "Communist China apparently desires the war to continue, whatever the cost to their allies."

"Their target is not merely South Viet Nam. It is Asia. Their objective is not the fulfillment of Vietnamese nationalism. It is to erode and discredit America's ability to prevent Chinese domination over all of Asia," Johnson said.

"In this they shall never succeed."

Johnson began by saying "the war in Viet Nam has many faces"—the first being the face of armed conflict, terror and gunfire. In this connection, he said: "The Communists in Viet Nam are slowly beginning to realize what they once scorned to believe: That we combine unlimited patience with unlimited resources in pursuit of an unwavering purpose."

The President summed up his determination by saying, "We will not abandon our commitment to South Viet Nam."

The second face of the war, he said, is the quest for a political solution.

"We know, as our adversaries should also know, there is no purely military solution in sight for either side," he said. "We are ready for unconditional discussions."

Johnson said "the third face of war in Viet Nam, is, at once, the most tragic and the most hopeful." He said it represents human need and the effort to develop the Vietnamese economy.

"People must fight for something," he said. "The people of South Viet Nam must know that after the long, brutal journey through the dark tunnel of conflict there breaks the light of a happier life. Only if this is so can they be expected to sustain the enduring will for continued strife."

Emphasizing that phase of his thinking, Johnson devoted the bulk of his address to members of the Association of American Editorial Cartoonists to present projects and future proposals for helping South Viet Nam develop.

Johnson Believes He Has Adequate Authority To Act in Viet Nam Fuss

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is known to believe he has all the authority he needs to take any further steps he considers necessary in shaping future U.S. strategy in the war in Viet Nam.

As to whether the authority is adequate to cover a Korean-type conflict, with American troops engaged in large-scale ground combat, Johnson takes the position that he has more than enough, but that the question of ground war at present is hypothetical. The President has emphasized to associates, officials said today, that he is not seeking any further expansion of the conflict but rather makes decisions as the need arises to move toward his declared goal of a peaceful settlement based on the security and independence of South Viet Nam.

Questions of presidential powers have arisen at various times as the United States expanded its role in the Vietnamese struggle. They were sharply focused in February when Johnson ordered air strikes against military targets in North Viet Nam and again this month when he asked Congress for a special $700-million appropriation.

The bombings began as retaliation for stepped-up guerrilla attacks in the South and have continued in an effort to slow the flow of arms and reinforcements from Communist North Viet Nam to Viet Cong guerrillas in the South.

Beyond these immediate objectives, the larger aim of U.S. strategy is to put North Viet Nam under such danger of destruction that its leaders will abandon their support of the Viet Cong and make peace.

Three months after the air strikes started, however, U.S. officials say they still have no indication from Hanoi of any interest in peacemaking on terms acceptable to the United States and South Viet Nam.

How long the conflict will continue at its present level is unknown and administration officials from Johnson down refuse to speculate on future developments.

The United States in the last few weeks heavily strengthened

Soviet Mooncraft Fails In Landing Try, Belief

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet spacecraft Lunik 5 hit the moon Wednesday night but apparently failed to make the expected soft landing that would have put the Soviet Union at least four months ahead of the United States in the lunar race.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, announced that the 3,250-pound spaceship landed in the area of the Sea of Clouds at 10:10 p.m. (2:10 p.m. Eastern Standard time), ending its three-day flight five minutes ahead of schedule.

"During the flight and the approach of the station to the moon a great deal of information was obtained which is necessary for the further elaboration of a system for soft landing on the moon's surface," Tass concluded.

Tass earlier had said that Lunik 5 would test for the first time elements of a soft-landing system. This was taken to indicate that the Soviets planned to land the spacecraft intact and that it would then radio back information from the moon's surface.

The landing report seemed the closest thing to an official admission to failure in the Soviet space program since the first sputnik made its trail-blazing flight eight years ago.

By saying information was sent back only in the approach, Tass indicated that the spacecraft had failed to lower itself gently onto the moon. This is the next vital step before a man can be landed on the lunar surface.

Liberals Cheer Tougher Voting Rights Measure

Johnson began by saying "the war in Viet Nam has many faces"—the first being the face of armed conflict, terror and gunfire. In this connection, he said: "The Communists in Viet Nam are slowly beginning to realize what they once scorned to believe: That we combine unlimited patience with unlimited resources in pursuit of an unwavering purpose."

The President summed up his determination by saying, "We will not abandon our commitment to South Viet Nam." The second face of the war, he said, is the quest for a political solution.

"We know, as our adversaries should also know, there is no purely military solution in sight for either side," he said. "We are ready for unconditional discussions."

Johnson said "the third face of war in Viet Nam, is, at once, the most tragic and the most hopeful." He said it represents human need and the effort to develop the Vietnamese economy.

"People must fight for something," he said. "The people of South Viet Nam must know that after the long, brutal journey through the dark tunnel of conflict there breaks the light of a happier life. Only if this is so can they be expected to sustain the enduring will for continued strife."

Emphasizing that phase of his thinking, Johnson devoted the bulk of his address to members of the Association of American Editorial Cartoonists to present projects and future proposals for helping South Viet Nam develop. (Continued on Page Two)

New Drive Planned for Apportioning

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Signs of an intensive second effort to reapportion the Ohio House before intervention by the federal courts have appeared in the 106th General Assembly.

Senate Majority Leader Theodore M. Gray, R-Miami, said Wednesday hearings will begin next week on four upper chamber proposals.

At the same time, House Majority Leader Robert F. Reckman, R - Hamilton, introduced a new plan as a substitute for the one defeated by voters in the May 4 primary.

Gray said the four Senate State Government Committee, will be combined for hearings before the Civil Service and Elections Committee.

They include one plan by Senate Democratic Leader Frank W. King, D-Lucas and others by Sens. Robin Turner, R-Seneca; Max Dennis R-Wilmington, and Jim Thorpe, R-Stark.

King's proposal spells out a specific plan for submission to Ohio voters while the others seek constitutional revision allowing the state to shape House districts on factors other than population.

New Johnson Maneuver Seen in Asian Strategy

By JOHN HIGHTOWER AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson apparently initiated a new maneuver on the diplomatic front of the Vietnamese war today in drawing a sharp distinction between the interests of North Viet Nam and those of Communist China in continuing the conflict.

Johnson evidently hopes by this means to encourage North Vietnamese interest in bringing the war to a close by strengthening any element in that country's leadership which may favor peace instead of prolonged struggle. Johnson implied that North Viet Nam's ultimate survival is at stake, saying that for that country continuation of the war in the absence of peace talks "means only damage without conquest."

One result of Johnson's maneuver also could be to provide some better answer to the critical question which troubles U.S. policymakers: Who is really behind the war in Viet Nam and who really has the power to make peace?

The United States began bombing North Viet Nam three months ago. Top officials say they have had no indication whatever that North Viet Nam was even interested in setting up informal talks unconditionally. So far Johnson has kept U.S. bombers well away from the populous, industrialized Hanoi area. The President has various increases in bombing attacks therefore open to him.

It is evident, though officials refuse to speculate, that if the conflict goes on indefinitely the President will be faced with a new decision on escalation. Associates say he would hope to achieve a cease-fire before that. Failing peace talks, the President obviously wants the issues as he sees them sharpened and clarified.

In his speech today he declared it is clearly in North Viet Nam's interest to negotiate because of the prospect of damage to that country without a prospect of successful conquest in South Viet Nam. Whether the North Vietnamese themselves would accept the assessment that with a big U.S. buildup in Viet Nam they can only lose from here on is a question. At least, however, it represents a major line of Johnson's argument.

Johnson Believes He Has Adequate Authority To Act in Viet Nam Fuss

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is known to believe he has all the authority he needs to take any further steps he considers necessary in shaping future U.S. strategy in the war in Viet Nam.

As to whether the authority is adequate to cover a Korean-type conflict, with American troops engaged in large-scale ground combat, Johnson takes the position that he has more than enough, but that the question of ground war at present is hypothetical.

The President has emphasized to associates, officials said today, that he is not seeking any further expansion of the conflict but rather makes decisions as the need arises to move toward his declared goal of a peaceful settlement based on the security and independence of South Viet Nam.

Questions of presidential powers have arisen at various times as the United States expanded its role in the Vietnamese struggle. They were sharply focused in February when Johnson ordered air strikes against military targets in North Viet Nam and again this month when he asked Congress for a special $700-million appropriation.

The bombings began as retaliation for stepped-up guerrilla attacks in the South and have continued in an effort to slow the flow of arms and reinforcements from Communist North Viet Nam to Viet Cong guerrillas in the South.

Beyond these immediate objectives, the larger aim of U.S. strategy is to put North Viet Nam under such danger of destruction that its leaders will abandon their support of the Viet Cong and make peace.

Three months after the air strikes started, however, U.S. officials say they still have no indication from Hanoi of any interest in peacemaking on terms acceptable to the United States and South Viet Nam.

How long the conflict will continue at its present level is unknown and administration officials from Johnson down refuse to speculate on future developments.

The United States in the last few weeks heavily strengthened (Continued on Page 16)

U.S. Marines and paratroopers encircled the downtown area last week, and many armed rebels were cut off in northern sections of the city.

Caamano said he would go to the OAS with charges that U.S. paratroopers were sniping from vantage points across the Ozama River. He said one sharpshooter killed 22 Dominicans from a perch atop a grain silo overlooking downtown streets.

He also called on the OAS to make an urgent on the spot investigation to prove or disprove U.S. charges that Communists have control or major influence over his movement.

velop its economy and care for its people.

The President again suggested that the United States will extend its aid programs into Communist North Viet Nam once peace is achieved.

When peace has come, he said, "then, perhaps, we can share that gracious task with all the people of Viet Nam — North and South alike."

Johnson announced that the United States "is now prepared to participate in, and support, an Asian development bank, to help finance economic progress."

"I call on every other industrialized country—including the Soviet Union—to help create a better life for the people of Southeast Asia. Surely the works of peace can bring men together in a common effort to abandon forever the ways of war."

The President also reported "that rapid progress has been made" toward putting into operation his April proposal for "a massive, cooperative development effort for Southeast Asia."

He gave no details.

Since 1954, Johnson said, the United States has spent more than $2 billion in economic aid for South Viet Nam.

"Despite the ravages of war," he said, "we have made steady gains. We have concentrated on food, health, education, housing and industry."

But Johnson said aid to South Viet Nam will be increased, though he put no figure on the amount involved.

Johnson said that "Communists terrorists have made aid programs a special target of attack."

"Agricultural stations are destroyed and medical centers burned. More than 100 Vietnamese malaria fighters are dead or missing. Our own aid officials have been wounded, killed, and kidnaped," he said.

Teachers Get Ultimatum To End Boycott

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Supt. Alex Jardine announced today about 400 teachers boycotting classes in a salary dispute will be fired if not back at work Friday morning.

The notice left a loophole if there is a delay in getting the teachers back to work. It said any teachers discharged Friday "will have to be reinstated by the school board" to regain their jobs.

The teachers, members of the AFL-CIO American Federation of Teachers, have been holding a continuing union meeting since Saturday morning.

Today they turned down a proposal to start "informational demonstrations" Friday after learning the idea of picketing is unpopular with the teachers.

The city has 1,400 public school teachers.

The teachers federation wants a $5,400 starting scale, up $400 from the present salary. The school board has approved a $5,200 starting base for next school year.

Half or less of the teachers were reported on duty at the three high schools mainly affected — Central, Riley and Washington.

Some of the students are supervising classes in absence of teachers.

DINNER TIME — Three members of the Circleville Fire Department sit down to dinner in the local headquarters kitchen. A remodeling project under way there will shorten the kitchen by eight feet to make space available for the new aerial ladder truck, slated to be delivered in November. The area was a stable many years ago. Seated at the table, are, left to right: Tom Smith, James Armstrong and Glenn Jones.

Fire Department Remodeling Starts

The Circleville Fire Department is taking advantage of summer weather to remodel its headquarters building in preparation for the newly purchased aerial ladder truck. The modern vehicle is scheduled to be delivered about Nov. 5.

Fire Chief Bernard Wolfe noted the apparatus room where the fire trucks are housed must be extended approximately eight feet on the east side to make room for the new truck.

The additional space is being gained by tearing down a wall or the kitchen and extending the apparatus room.

Wolfe said there will be ample space remaining for the kitchen facilities.

The first motorized truck was purchased in 1913. But a team of horses was retained until the second truck was purchased two years later.

Ray Anderson, a retired fireman, says the second truck purchase was one of the first booster tank trucks ever made.

WOLFE said the current project at the firehouse disclosed the ceiling joists above the apparatus room are rough-sawn white pine.

The joists are a full two by 16 inches and are more than 35 feet long.

Much of the remodeling is being completed by firemen.

However, the chief said work that involves a time element, such as the removal of the wall or pouring cement, will be performed by outside contractors.

Funds for construction are coming from the city's building fund, budgeted each year for the maintenance and repair of all city buildings.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Appalachian Regional Commission, set up by Congress to administer the federal Appalachia Program, has approved construction of a highway across Southern Ohio.

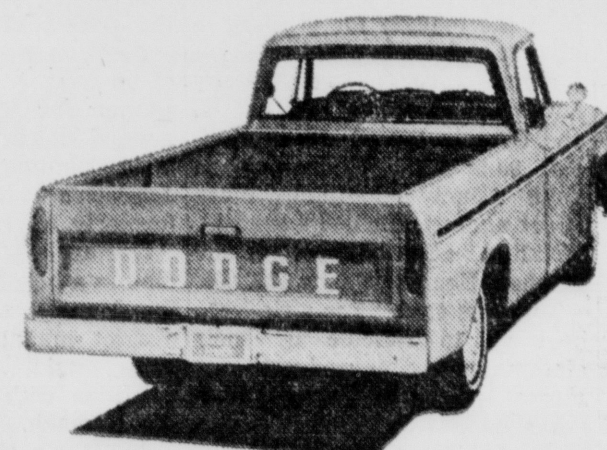

A spokesman for the Ohio Department of Development said Wednesday night the corridor approved by the joint federal-state commission follows Ohio 32 eastward out of Cincinnati to Sardinia; from there runs due east through Jackson County; then turns northeastward to Athens; and slightly southeastward along U.S. 50, then east to Belpre.

He explained that not all of the exact route of the highway has been set and that the corridor can be as wide as 50 miles.

The Ohio highway project was part of 992 miles of highway construction approved in nine of the states sharing in the Appalachia program.

restoration of the constitution," and that acceptance of a coalition "with elements from the other side would be a repudiation of constitutional objectives for which we have fought."

Cury said the junta has no legality or popular support "except that extended by the U.S. military."

Caamano told a news conference he would ask OAS permission to establish a corridor through the U.S. lines surrounding the rebel stronghold in downtown Santo Domingo.

U.S. Marines and paratroopers encircled the downtown area last week, and many armed rebels were cut off in northern sections of the city.

Caamano said he would go to the OAS with charges that U.S. paratroopers were sniping from vantage points across the Ozama River. He said one sharpshooter killed 22 Dominicans from a perch atop a grain silo overlooking downtown streets.

He also called on the OAS to make an urgent on the spot investigation to prove or disprove U.S. charges that Communists have control or major influence over his movement.

He added that he would accept the establishment of an inter-American police force in the Dominican Republic — a key element in moving toward a solution.

In New York, the U.N. Security Council sought a compromise as the council neared a decision on a Soviet complaint of U.S. armed interference in the Dominican Republic. But it appeared that a majority could not be mustered for any definite action by the council.

One person was reported killed and three others injured Wednesday night during a demonstration in Buenos Aires, Argentina, protesting U.S. intervention in the Dominican Republic.

velop its economy and care for its people.

The President again suggested that the United States will extend its aid programs into Communist North Viet Nam once peace is achieved.

When peace has come, he said, "then, perhaps, we can share that gracious task with all the people of Viet Nam — North and South alike."

Johnson announced that the United States "is now prepared to participate in, and support, an Asian development bank, to help finance economic progress."

"I call on every other industrialized country—including the Soviet Union—to help create a better life for the people of Southeast Asia. Surely the works of peace can bring men together in a common effort to abandon forever the ways of war."

The President also reported "that rapid progress has been made" toward putting into operation his April proposal for "a massive, cooperative development effort for Southeast Asia."

He gave no details.

Since 1954, Johnson said, the United States has spent more than $2 billion in economic aid for South Viet Nam.

"Despite the ravages of war," he said, "we have made steady gains. We have concentrated on food, health, education, housing and industry."

But Johnson said aid to South Viet Nam will be increased, though he put no figure on the amount involved.

Johnson said that "Communists terrorists have made aid programs a special target of attack."

"Agricultural stations are destroyed and medical centers burned. More than 100 Vietnamese malaria fighters are dead or missing. Our own aid officials have been wounded, killed, and kidnaped," he said.

Stock Mart Still Climbs

NEW YORK (AP) — Leadership by airlines and several of the biggest blue chips accompanied a further stock market advance early this afternoon. Trading was active.

Gains of fractions to a point or so outnumbered losers.

An advance of more than 5 points for DuPont gave market indicators a powerful upthrust. DuPont's opening was slightly delayed as buying was generated by prominent publication of an article in a financial news paper about the chemical giant's rapid growth.

All Big Three motors were higher. Aerospace issues, drugs, electrical equipments, utilities and chemicals were among the gainers.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.0 at 344.4 with industrials up 2.2, rails unchanged and utilities up .3.

He received emergency treatment at Berger Hospital and was transferred to University Hospital, Columbus.

Staff members also administered emergency care to four additional persons who were treated and released.

Joyce Long, 17, Route 1, Williamsport, fell on a cinder track at Teays Valley and suffered abrasions to her left knee and both hands.

Joyce E. Tarbill, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Tarbill, Route 2, injured a finger of her right hand on a baton.

Robert Wilkinson III, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilkinson II, 128 Park Place, injured his right ankle at school.

George Wolfe, 19, of 379 Weldon Ave., an employee of Lincoln Molded Plastics Inc., dropped a bucket and injured his right foot.

DINNER TIME — Three members of the Circleville Fire Department sit down to dinner in the local headquarters kitchen. A remodeling project under way there will shorten the kitchen by eight feet to make space available for the new aerial ladder truck, slated to be delivered in November. The area was a stable many years ago. Seated at the table, are, left to right: Tom Smith, James Armstrong and Glenn Jones.

Fire Department Remodeling Starts

The Circleville Fire Department is taking advantage of summer weather to remodel its headquarters building in preparation for the newly purchased aerial ladder truck. The modern vehicle is scheduled to be delivered about Nov. 5.

Fire Chief Bernard Wolfe noted the apparatus room where the fire trucks are housed must be extended approximately eight feet on the east side to make room for the new truck.

The additional space is being gained by tearing down a wall or the kitchen and extending the apparatus room.

Wolfe said there will be ample space remaining for the kitchen facilities.

THE FIRE house was built in the days when wagons were drawn to fires in Circleville by horses. What is now the kitchen and lounge at the house originally was the stable.

When tearing down the wall, firemen discovered "bushels of oats and hay chaff" between the ceiling of the kitchen and the floor of the room overhead.

According to Chief Wolfe, the room overhead was used to store feed for the horses.

Horses were used by the fire department until approximately 1915, local firefighters believe.

The first motorized truck was purchased in 1913. But a team of horses was retained until the second truck was purchased two years later.

Ray Anderson, a retired fireman, says the second truck purchase was one of the first booster tank trucks ever made.

WOLFE said the current project at the firehouse disclosed the ceiling joists above the apparatus room are rough-sawn white pine.

The joists are a full two by 16 inches and are more than 35 feet long.

Much of the remodeling is being completed by firemen.

However, the chief said work that involves a time element, such as the removal of the wall or pouring cement, will be performed by outside contractors.

Funds for construction are coming from the city's building fund, budgeted each year for the maintenance and repair of all city buildings.

GO FOR THE LONG HAUL... TAKE IT OUT ON DODGE!

FOR 5 YEARS OR 50,000 MILES

Pack it up. Stack it full. Give it the gun. Get under way. For the short haul or long — a Dodge-built truck can take it right and day. The toughest worker on wheels. And backed up to prove it: with a 5-year or 50,000 mile warranty* on the engine and drive train. Isn't that what makes a good investment a better investment? Tough Dodge trucks deliver the goods and keep coming back for more. Priced higher? Not a bit. The Dodge Truck Boys make 'em as easy to buy as they are to drive.

*HERE'S HOW THIS WARRANTY COVERAGE PROTECTS YOU: Chrysler Corporation warrants for 5 years or 50,000 miles or 1500 hours of operation, whichever comes first, against defects in materials and workmanship and will replace or repair at a Chrysler Motors Corporation authorized dealer's place of business gasoline and Perkins diesel engines (i.e., block, heads and internal parts), intake manifold, water pump, flywheel, flywheel housing, clutch housing, torque converter, transmission (i.e., case and internal parts, excluding manual clutch), transfer case and all internal parts, drive shafts, center bearings, universal joints, driving axles and differentials, and drive wheel bearings of the new Dodge trucks, provided the owner has (1) the engine oil changed and universal joints (except sealed-type) lubricated and the oil-bath-type carburetor air filter cleaned every 3 months or 4000 miles (every 2 months or 2000 miles on models 400 through 1000), whichever comes first, (2) the engine oil filter replaced and dry-type carburetor air filter cleaned every second oil change, and dry-type carburetor air filter element replaced every 24,000 miles, (3) the crankcase ventilation system cleaned and serviced every 4000 miles, and (4) the transmission, transfer case and driving axle lubricants changed every 32,000 miles (every 20,000 miles on models 400 through 1000). The foregoing services must be performed more often when reasonably required due to severe dust or regular "stop and go" operation. Every 6 months the owner must furnish to such a dealer evidence of performance of the required service and request the dealer to certify (1) receipt of such evidence and (2) the truck's then current mileage.

Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

Kenny Hannan was named president of the local New Car Dealers Assn. during an election of officers meeting held at the Wardell Party Home.

Pickaway County Court-house employees working in the new portion of the S. Court St. building transferred operations to the old part of the building due to a break in the furnace and a cold spell in this area.

Miss Elizabeth Musser, 302 Northridge Road, was among the candidates for graduation from Mount Holyoke College, South Hadley, Mass.

TEN YEARS AGO

Pickaway County Boy Scouts participated in a Camporee at Camp Lazarus, Worthington.

Mrs. Paul R. Porter was elected president of the Jaycee Wives Club.

A total of 20 members of the Pickaway Country Club enjoyed the Ladies Day event.

Twenty-five years ago Mrs. Mack Mader and daughter of Arlington were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Mader and family, E. Main St.

Word was received by C. B. Teegardin and Sons, Ashville Cattlemen that Oakwood Missile 3rd, which was purchased from them had been named Grand Champion female of The Royal Easter Show held at Sydney, New South Wales, Australia.

A new Stephen Foster one cent stamp and a John Philip Sousa two cent stamp were on sale at the postoffice.

In Birmingham, England, the Labor and the Conservative Parties' by-election committee rooms were given the same telephone number. That's carrying this togetherness stuff a bit too far.

If beards come back all the way into style, who knows but what some day American men may celebrate centennials by getting a clean shave.

Scientists say that someday we'll be eating "prefabricated" meals. A steak with soup and dessert hooked onto opposite ends?

Oddly enough, observes Grandpappy Jenkins, one of the newest of special "months" in point of observance in the U.S., is Senior Citizens Month!

What a joke it would be on most science fiction writers if Martians turned out to be really look just like human beings — as does that one on TV.

Hyenas do not have a sense of humor — nature item. Then, that noise they make must be what is technically known as a "hollow laugh?"

The plaice is a European flounder that grows up to eight to 10 pounds. That virtually makes an adult plaice a bumper crop all by itself.

Try and Stop Me

PRETTY NEARLY everybody is familiar with the following four quotations—but who originated them? "What this country needs is a good five-cent cigar." "I never knew a girl who was ruined by a book." "We have met the enemy and they are ours." "All the things I like to do are either immoral, illegal, or fattening." First was said by Vice-President Thomas Marshall, number 2 by Mayor Jimmie Walker, number 3 by Commodore Perry, and number 4 by Alexander Woolcott.

A delicate problem is causing me great concern. I am scared to tell my fear of cancer to anyone. Even writing to a stranger is difficult. The word cancer terrifies me.

I do not have a doctor of my own and I cannot afford to go to one. I am grateful for the feeling of hope you always offer. I pray that I too can be helped.

Mrs. R. R., Illinois
Dear Mrs. R.: The delicacy of your problem is more than apparent by your inability to suggest its nature.

That which is of particular importance is your unfounded terror that you may be developing a cancer.

It is pathetic that so many people live their lives in the shadow of diseases that exist only in their minds and not in their bodies.

Although it is difficult for you to write to a stranger, it is of extreme value. You have spoken and expressed your fear of a ghost word, cancer, that has been hovering over you. That simple expression has released some of the fears that have been disturbing your peace of mind.

It is distressing, of course, that you cannot afford the private care of a physician. This does not mean, however, that you need be deprived of good medical attention.

There are few, very few communities in this entire country that do not have some provision for those who cannot afford private care. Clinics are staffed by practicing physicians who give liberally of their time and experience to everyone in need of their medical guidance.

The help you so anxiously seek was paradoxically given you by yourself. Speaking out your problem to a stranger is the first and most important step in arriving at a mature solution to your problem.

Now try to call a community physician and explain your financial limitations. You then will become acquainted with the kindness and dedication of physicians to all of those who need their help.

Our granddaughter is five years old. She doesn't talk. We have been told that there is nothing wrong, and that we must be patient because she is a stubborn child. How long do we wait?

Mr. N. A., Indiana
Dear Mr. A.: Four out of the child's five years is a long time to wait patiently for a child to speak.

"Stubbornness" is not sufficient reason to wait any longer. Within 50 miles of your city there is an excellent Hearing and Speech Center where she can be tested for neurological disease, psychological disturbance, hearing and sight abnormalities.

"You, sir," said my friendly enemy, "are a globalist."

"What's that?" I asked disingenuously, for I, too read Walter Lippmann's column.

"A globalist," said my friendly enemy, "is one who proclaims universal revolution. He wants to enforce his dogma, whether it be capitalist or Communist, everywhere on the earth. He isn't content to use his power within his own defensible sphere of interest."

"What in the name of Heaven are you getting at?" I asked. "I would regard an invasion of Soviet Russia or putting Western soldiers ashore on the Chinese mainland as evidence of utter stupidity. I was even against the proposal to invade Japan back in 1945. How can you make me out to be a globalist?"

"Why, Senator Morse has called you a warmonger about South Vietnam."

"Well, maybe I am a warmonger about defending that part of the world."

"But that's in Asia, and it's outside our normal sphere of diplomatic influence."

"I know it's in Asia," I said, "but it's within easy reach of the sea, and the U.S. is a great sea power. What you and Walter Lippmann have forgotten is that old Churchillian figure of speech about the land beast and the sea beast."

"Let me recall to you the memory of the theoretician who stood behind Churchill's way of thinking," I said, warming to my own argument. "I refer, of course, to the English geopolitical thinker named Sir Halford Mackinder. The late Dorothy Thompson insisted that I read Mackinder, and I have never been the same since."

"If you remember, Sir Halford Mackinder saw the world struggle as a continual seesaw between the great 'Heartland' powers of the Eurasian continent and the peoples who lived within easy reach of the oceans. Today, the big Heartland powers are Soviet Russia and Red China. They cannot be reached or dissuaded by threats of invasion with a foot-soldier army. But the land beasts can be contained all around the rims of Europe and Asia by the mobile strength of the sea beast."

"How do you suppose that the Korean War ended as it did, with the U. S. keeping the Red Chinese and the Russians from breaking out to the sea in a way that would have utterly intimidated Japan and the Philippines? It's because we had the mobile sea power to move soldiers up the Korean peninsula for the Inchon landing, which took place behind the backs of the Communist land beast. Now it's true that South Vietnam is only part of a peninsula, but, along with Thailand and Malaysia, it can be reinforced and defended by U. S. Marines from Okinawa who have the sea meast to provide swift transport.

"It's no accident that, after the upsets that came in the wake of World War II, the boundaries between the land beast and the sea beast — or between the elephant and the whale, to use another Churchillian figure of speech — were more or less stabilized in back of peninsulas such as Italy and Greece, and along great mountain ranges such as the Caucasus and the Himalayas, and in the island and peninsula ring from Southeast Asia up through the Philippines to South Korea and Japan. If we were to decamp from South Vietnam, it would permit the land beast to outflank the sea beast at Singapore, by taking Malaysia from the rear. And the sea beast would be left to cower in such places as India, Ceylon, Thailand, and Australia."

"But," said my friendly enemy, "your figure of the land beast and the sea beast doesn't hold up. Indonesia's Sukarno, an ally of the land beast powers, rules an island kingdom. So does Castro in Cuba."

"Alas!" I said, "you are right. But that is because the sea beast nodded on a couple of occasions and failed to use the strength that might easily have been brought to bear on Indonesia and Cuba. It wouldn't be 'globalism' to deal with these summarily even today. Anyway, the sea beast isn't making the same mistake about Santo Domingo that it made about Cuba. You've got to hand Lyndon Johnson credit for that. He's a sea beast man whether he ever read Sir Halford Mackinder or not. And I for one, love him for it, and propose to back him on his sea beast logic to the end."

Dear Abby: Strictly Business!

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who is 26, attractive and extremely well-educated. She confided that she's agreed to marry a 39-year-old, foreign-born man who wants to stay in this country longer than he otherwise could, for business reasons. In return for this favor, the man has promised to give my friend a trip to Paris. After this foreigner finishes his business in this country, they plan to get a quick Mexican divorce. Neither this man nor my girl friend has ever been married. I have tried to talk her out of it, but she insists on going through with it. How can I bring her to her sense? "MITT"

DEAR "MITT": You probably can't but try, anyway. This isn't a marriage, it's a business deal. And I'm not so sure it's legal. Encourage your friend to "confide" in a lawyer. She might discover (with his help) the cheapest way to get a trip to Paris is to buy her own ticket.

DEAR ABBY: I would like

Ohioans Plead For OK of Erie Canal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several Ohioans told the House Appropriations Subcommittee Wednesday that delay in construction of the proposed Lake Erie-to-Ohio River canal is a "waste the nation cannot afford."

Kenneth M. Lloyd, executive secretary of Interconnecting Waterway, Inc., Columbus, told the committee the canal would permit the free interchange of water-borne commerce between the Ohio-Mississippi River navigation system and the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway.

James P. Griffin, district 26 director of the United Steelworkers of America, Youngstown, said his district's membership has dropped from 65,000 to 50,000 and Pittsburgh-Youngstown steelmakers stand to lose at least an additional 20,000 to 25,000 jobs in the next 10 years unless the canal is constructed.

James H. Hurley, vice president of the North American Coal Co., Cleveland, said the canal would open up new markets for coal "because it would enable us to be competitive with other fuels." Hurley noted that 8 per cent of the coal mined in the United States comes from the drainage basin of the Ohio River.

The long-talked-about canal earlier this year was called feasible by the Army Corps of Engineers through Brig. Gen. W. P. Leber of Cincinnati. He estimated the cost at $1,025,000,000 with the federal government paying $940 million and other interests $85 million.

your opinion of a schoolteacher who keeps the whole class after school for 30 minutes because one of the children did something wrong and she didn't know which one it was. Several mothers (including myself) had to sit outside in their cars and wait for their children to come out. My daughter had an appointment with an eye doctor, and because she was late she was put at the bottom of the list and had to wait an hour and a half to see him. I think this teacher ought to be fired. Don't use my name if you use this letter. She would take it out on my daughter.

UP IN ARMS
DEAR UP: I don't subscribe to punishing the innocent in order to make sure the guilty gets what's coming to him. Talk to the teacher first and get her side of it.

DEAR ABBY: I don't want to go on living, but taking one's life is a sin against God, so what can I do? My husband was very sick and thought he was going to die. He called me to his bedside and said he didn't want to die with anything on his conscience, so he made a full confession of his sins to me. I told him he didn't have to, but he did anyway. He confessed that over three years ago he had been unfaithful to me with my youngest sister, and before that with my dearest friend. There were others, too, but these hurt me the most. Well, he didn't die, and now I cannot look my dear sister in the face. And I don't care to see my best friend again. They know something is wrong but I can't bring myself to tell them. How can I get over this terrible hurt?

HEARTSICK
DEAR HEARTSICK: Don't permit yourself to dwell on these morbid thoughts. Try to think constructively and positively, and pray for strength, compassion and the grace to forgive. You can bury the past under interests of the present and hopes for the future—if you really try.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WORRIED TO DEATH" IN LINCOLN: If you don't want to go to the health service, see a private physician. But DO NOT DELAY, in justice to yourself and to the people with whom you are living. You could have an infectious disease.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Strictly Business!

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who is 26, attractive and extremely well-educated. She confided that she's agreed to marry a 39-year-old, foreign-born man who wants to stay in this country longer than he otherwise could, for business reasons. In return for this favor, the man has promised to give my friend a trip to Paris. After this foreigner finishes his business in this country, they plan to get a quick Mexican divorce. Neither this man nor my girl friend has ever been married. I have tried to talk her out of it, but she insists on going through with it. How can I bring her to her sense?

DEAR "MITT": You probably can't but try, anyway. This isn't a marriage, it's a business deal. And I'm not so sure it's legal. Encourage your friend to "confide" in a lawyer. She might discover (with his help) the cheapest way to get a trip to Paris is to buy her own ticket.

DEAR ABBY: I would like

Ohioans Plead For OK of Erie Canal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several Ohioans told the House Appropriations Subcommittee Wednesday that delay in construction of the proposed Lake Erie-to-Ohio River canal is a "waste the nation cannot afford."

Kenneth M. Lloyd, executive secretary of Interconnecting Waterway, Inc., Columbus, told the committee the canal would permit the free interchange of water-borne commerce between the Ohio-Mississippi River navigation system and the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway.

James P. Griffin, district 26 director of the United Steelworkers of America, Youngstown, said his district's membership has dropped from 65,000 to 50,000 and Pittsburgh-Youngstown steelmakers stand to lose at least an additional 20,000 to 25,000 jobs in the next 10 years unless the canal is constructed.

James H. Hurley, vice president of the North American Coal Co., Cleveland, said the canal would open up new markets for coal "because it would enable us to be competitive with other fuels." Hurley noted that 8 per cent of the coal mined in the United States comes from the drainage basin of the Ohio River.

The long-talked - about canal earlier this year was called feasible by the Army Corps of Engineers through Brig. Gen. W. P. Leber of Cincinnati. He estimated the cost at $1,025,000,000 with the federal government paying $940 million and other interests $85 million.

Another actress continued, according to the petition:

"She should be given the booby prize of the week for birth control."

The two brothers said they acted for the 300 descendants of Katherine Young.

Quemoy Alert Is Continuing

Red Chinese Keep Up Harassment

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Whatever attention Communist China is paying its other frontiers, it is not forgetting Quemoy, the Nationalist island just off the Chinese mainland.

Peking's forces ordinarily bombard the island on odd-numbered days and refrain from shelling it on even-numbered days, in accord with an announced pattern. But over the years there have been nearly 500 lapses from shelling on odd-numbered days.

The Communists have made no new attempt to crush Quemoy since their massive effort in the summer of 1958.

But there have been some flareups, including massive bombardments which marked President Dwight D. Eisenhower's visit to Formosa in June 1960.

Since the big eruption in 1958, Communist shelling of Quemoy has had two main objectives—harassment and propaganda.

More than half the shells fired carry only enough explosives to burst them and scatter leaflets.

In the first four months of this year the Communists, by Nationalist count, have fired an average of 666 shells a month at Quemoy and its satellite islands.

Upward of 70,000 troops garrison the Quemoy Islands, which have a total area of about 57 square miles and a civilian population of about 50,000.

Quemoy, which the Chinese call Kinsen, meaning "Golden Gate," accounts for 50.5 square miles of the area.

Quemoy in 1949 had to import practically all its food. It still has to get rice from Formosa but is self-sufficient in vegetables, fish, poultry, fruit and pigs.

One of the strangest things about the most heavily shelled island in the world is its grip as a tourist attraction.

The Defense Ministry cannot cope with the demand for foreigners and Chinese for passage to the island.

Canton City Council Sued for $2.4 Million

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — City councilmen have been sued in the controversy over Canton's $2.4 million urban renewal project.

The 16 members were subpoenaed and the Ohio Supreme Court has given the city until June 12 to file an answer why the suit should not be carried through. A court order is asked in the suit to require council to put the issue on the ballot.

The suit was filed by Richard J. Wingerter, one of five petitioners for a public vote on the urban renewal project.

Shrimping is the most valuable seafood industry in the United States, the National Geographic says. In Florida, the tasty shellfish brings in more money than all other seafoods combined.

Ex-GOP Leader Sits in Solitary Splendor

WASHINGTON (AP) — The view from Charlie Halleck's window is very different these days.

He looks up at the Capitol dome from across the street now, instead of sitting under it in the inner sanctum of the House Republican leader's office, as he did for six years.

The view is magnificent, but it takes some getting used to for the "gut-fighter" from Indiana.

It should be magnificent, because Halleck had first pick of all the choice offices in the new Rayburn House Office Building.

That was because he was voted out of his leadership post in January by a rebellion of "Young Turk" Republicans who installed Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan in his place.

Halleck had to move on, and so he became the first congressman to settle in the new building, even though it wasn't quite finished then.

Halleck sits in solitary splendor now surrounded by the souvenirs of bygone political wars.

A row of miniature elephants parades along the edge of his desk, and there is a golden telephone, the same one he used on the platform at the Republican convention of 1960 in Chicago.

The Illinois Bell Telephone Co. gave it to him.

At 64, the ex-leader seems not quite so bouncy as in the days when he marshaled the Republican troops against the Democrats.

But he insists a recent medical checkup showed him in good shape.

"The pressure is off now. I don't have to be on the floor for the opening prayer," he said in an interview.

The fact is his stocky form is seldom seen on the House floor since his downfall from the leadership.

As to the party's crushing defeat last November, Halleck said, "I was here when things were a heck of a lot worse. We were down to 88 Republicans in the House back in 1937. We came back, and we will again."

There are 140 Republicans now, and 294 Democrats.

He analyzed the election this way: "We should have clobbered the Democrats among the farm folks. But there was a sort of whispering campaign that if you elected Barry Goldwater the whole farm program would be out the window overnight. So we were on the defensive instead of giving the Democrats hell for not delivering on their farm promises."

"Civil rights—" He paused and said with a sigh, "I worked so hard for that. Both the Kennedys bragged on me so much people in my district didn't understand."

But with Goldwater heading the ticket, Halleck said "the colored people in my district wouldn't even vote for me." There was a note of disbelief in his voice.

Halleck said he has no quarrel with President Johnson's policies in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic, but felt they were bound to be an issue in the next congressional elections.

"Many times down there with Democrat presidents I've backed them on foreign policy. It goes back to the Truman Doctrine in Turkey. I'd say, 'Mr. President, if that's the policy I'm for it.' But sometimes it seems we get called in when the sirens are blowing for a crash landing instead of when the whistle blows for the takeoff."

Halleck said he sometimes disagrees with the new leader, Ford, on policy matters, but he believes in party unity.

The "new image" Republicans who worked to oust Halleck said the party leadership must do more than oppose, that it must develop reasonable alternatives to Democratic programs.

Police Week

RICHARD ANDERSON

RICHARD BLANEY

EDITOR'S NOTE — National Police Week, now being observed here and throughout the country, is a period set aside to remind citizens of the public service provided by all branches of law enforcement. All members of the Circleville Department will be introduced during the week. Recognition today goes to Patrolmen Richard Anderson and Richard Blaney.

Patrolman Anderson, owning seven years of service with the Circleville Department, was born July 21, 1932, in Circleville. He has lived here all his life.

He attended school in Circleville and completed his education while in military service. He was graduated with the CHS class of 1954.

aboard the Destroyer USS John R. Craig in the South Pacific. He returned to Circleville following his separation.

The Circleville officer was first appointed a regular patrolman in December of 1955. He served until September of 1956 when he resigned to become associated in the restaurant business with his father.

RETURNING to the police department as a special patrolman in April of 1959, he was appointed a regular on April 15, 1960. He has attended schools conducted by the Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation, FBI and the Attorney General's Crime Control Clinics. He works on the 3 to 11 p. m. second shift.

Patrolman Anderson and his wife, Pearl (Carter) Anderson were married in 1952 and reside at 153 Walnut St. They have three children, Carol, 9, Mike, 7, and Karla, 5.

Patrolman Blaney, another veteran of seven years police service, was born in Circleville Dec. 13, 1931. He attended Circleville schools and was graduated at CHS, class of 1949.

Following graduation he was employed at the local General Electric plant until he entered military service in 1951. His U. S. Air Force specialty was photography and he saw overseas duty in France and Germany.

Following his discharge in 1953, Patrolman Blaney lived in Lynchburg, Va., for 1½ years and worked as a photographer for the daily newspaper there. He returned to Circleville and was employed at Lincoln Molded Plastics prior to joining the police department.

The patrolman has five children. They are Billy, 11, Cheryl, 10, Beth, 7, Ricky, 6, and Judith Lea, 1 month.

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bargains in beef and pork will be hard to find in the nation's food stores this weekend.

Housewives probably will do well to check the prices of specials and to look for low-priced substitutes, like eggs, fish and chicken, for the next few weeks at least.

Behind the higher price levels is a restricted supply of livestock this spring.

One national supermarket chain wasn't able to find a single beef or pork cut to sell at reduced price this weekend in New York City area outlets.

Although the higher wholesale prices may not mean too many increases at the meat counters, they will leave the retailers less room to make bargains for at least a month of two.

Rough weather this spring has cut into some fruit and vegetable crops. Prices may be a bit higher than usual.

Better buys in vegetables vary by region, but cooking greens, spinach, carrots and turnips may be attractively priced. Lettuce, celery and cabbage are higher in several areas.

You're missing a lot
when you own a Volkswagen.

A VW has fewer parts than other cars because it needs fewer parts.

There's no bulky drive shaft to transfer engine power to the rear wheels. Our car's engine is in back to start with (and to maintain traction with). That's why it doesn't need a drive shaft.

And it doesn't need a radiator, or a water pump, or hoses. Because the engine's cooled with air, not water.

(When you drive your first VW, you may miss putting in antifreeze, rust inhibitors, and whatnot. But you'll soon get used to it.)

The stuff a Volkswagen doesn't use, it doesn't have to haul (and waste gas on). Which is one reason it averages 32 miles per gallon of regular.

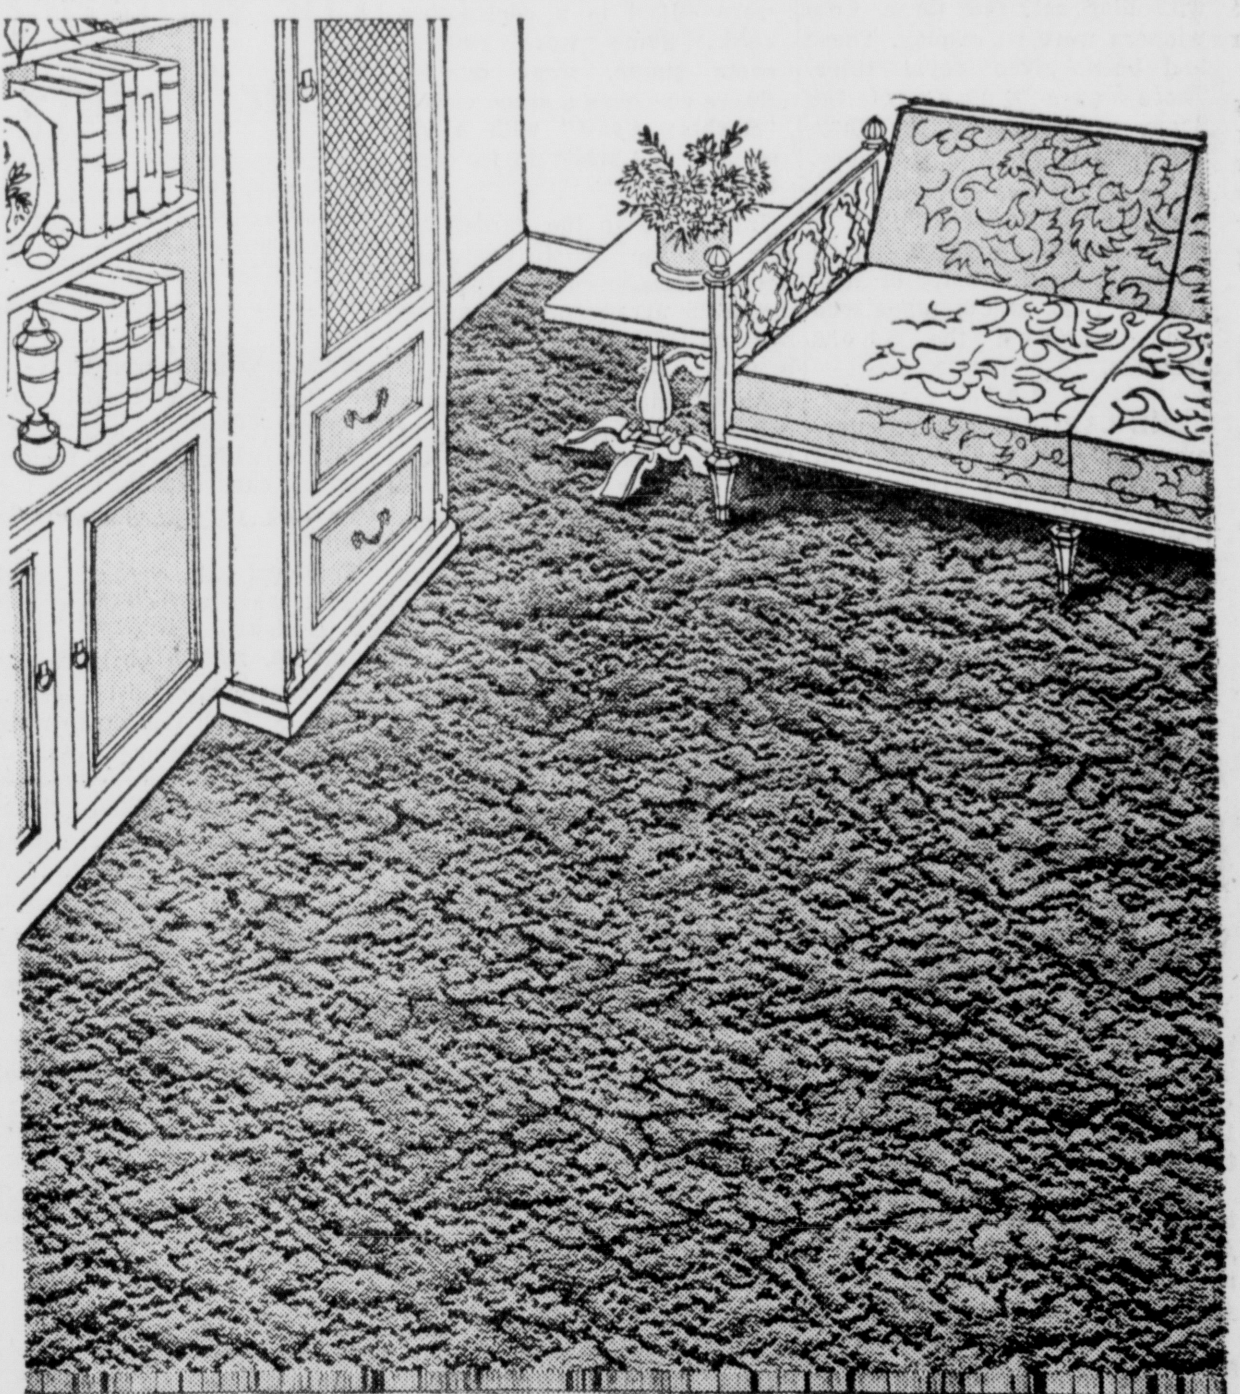

And the parts you don't buy, you'll never repair. So you can't waste money on that.

Now you know why you can drive a VW for years and years with a lot of parts missing. And never miss them.

"The pressure is off now. I don't have to be on the floor for the opening prayer," he said in an interview.

The fact is his stocky form is seldom seen on the House floor since his downfall from the leadership.

As to the party's crushing defeat last November, Halleck said, "I was here when things were a heck of a lot worse. We were down to 88 Republicans in the House back in 1937. We came back, and we will again." There are 140 Republicans now, and 294 Democrats.

He analyzed the election this way: "We should have clobbered the Democrats among the farm folks. But there was a sort of whispering campaign that if you elected Barry Goldwater the whole farm program would be out the window overnight. So we were on the defensive instead of giving the Democrats hell for not delivering on their farm promises."

"Civil rights—" He paused and said with a sigh, "I worked so hard for that. Both the Kennedys bragged on me so much people in my district didn't understand."

But with Goldwater heading the ticket, Halleck said "the colored people in my district wouldn't even vote for me." There was a note of disbelief in his voice.

Halleck said he has no quarrel with President Johnson's policies in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic, but felt they were bound to be an issue in the next congressional elections.

"Many times down there with Democrat presidents I've backed them on foreign policy. It goes back to the Truman Doctrine in Turkey. I'd say, 'Mr. President, if that's the policy I'm for it.' But sometimes it seems we get called in when the sirens are blowing for a crash landing instead of when the whistle blows for the takeoff."

Halleck said he sometimes disagrees with the new leader, Ford, on policy matters, but he believes in party unity.

The "new image" Republicans who worked to oust Halleck said the party leadership must do more than oppose, that it must develop reasonable alternatives to Democratic programs.

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bargains in beef and pork will be hard to find in the nation's food stores this weekend.

Housewives probably will do well to check the prices of specials and to look for low-priced substitutes, like eggs, fish and chicken, for the next few weeks at least.

Behind the higher price levels is a restricted supply of livestock this spring.

One national supermarket chain wasn't able to find a single beef or pork cut to sell at reduced price this weekend in New York City area outlets.

Although the higher wholesale prices may not mean too many increases at the meat counters, they will leave the retailers less room to make bargains for at least a month or two.

Rough weather this spring has cut into some fruit and vegetable crops. Prices may be a bit higher than usual.

Better buys in vegetables vary by region, but cooking greens, spinach, carrots and turnips may be attractively priced. Lettuce, celery and cabbage are higher in several areas.

You're missing a lot
when you own a Volkswagen.

A VW has fewer parts than other cars because it needs fewer parts.

There's no bulky drive shaft to transfer engine power to the rear wheels. Our car's engine is in back to start with land to maintain traction with. That's why it doesn't need a drive shaft.

And it doesn't need a radiator, or a water pump, or hoses. Because the engine's cooled with air, not water.

(When you drive your first VW, you may miss putting in antifreeze, rust inhibitors, and whatnot. But you'll soon get used to it.)

The stuff a Volkswagen doesn't use, it doesn't have to haul (and waste gas on). Which is one reason it averages 32 miles per gallon of regular.

And the parts you don't buy, you'll never repair. So you can't waste money on that.

Now you know why you can drive a VW for years and years with a lot of parts missing. And never miss them.

African Violet Exhibition Attracts Flock of Visitors

A steady flow of visitors was attracted to the three-day exhibit staged by the Columbus African Violet Society.

The show was expertly and smartly staged. Tables were draped in pale pink and festooned with purple satin roping. Classes were separated by purple ribbon.

In a recessed space hung with pale pink material overdraped with lilac net, the three top winners were on display. These had been given royal titles. There was a Queen of the Show, a Princess of the Show and Largest Plant of the Show.

The Queen was a magnificent specimen of "Angel Child", a pink and white with a hint of green. It was the entry of Mrs. Mildred Lusk of Columbus who also entered the Show Princess.

... THE LARGEST of show measured 24 inches in diameter and was an excellently grown specimen of "Black Cherry." Mrs. John Stecker won this award.

A violet grower in the Laurelville area, Mrs. Loren Fogler won three awards — two blue ribbons and a rosette

A spokesman of the African Violet Society of Columbus said there were 383 entries, the largest number ever exhibited at a show.

There were violets in every value of pink, purple, orchid, raspberry, lilac, blue - violet and white on display. Some were edged in a contrasting color. Some were ruffled, some single, some double. There was even a green violet, "Barbary Coast" with a bit of pink and white in its center.

Interesting to the garden editor was the artistic arrangement division. Yes, indeed, beautiful arrangements can be created from these short stemmed little blossoms.

An exhibit of violets grown under fluorescent light caught the interest of many visitors.

... MEMBERS of the Columbus African Violet Society took turns at the two information tables. Visitors frequently stopped to ask questions. Many grew violets in their own homes and had specific problems to discuss.

Displayed on the information tables were violets plagued with one or more of the plant's common problems such as a double crown, long neck and suckers that should be removed. Society members demonstrated cures for the ailments.

Some of the show-goers just wanted to "shop talk" about violets at the information booth.

Each registered visitor was presented with a named violet leaf and was informed just how to go about growing a plant from it.

Garden Gossip

When Mrs. Margie West, Laurelville, heard that the biggest African Violet in the show in Columbus measured 24 inches in diameter she decided to measure her own. It's measurement was 2 3/4 inches across.

George Maxson took a lot of kidding when election day turned out to be so good for plowing. There he sat at the polls waiting for people to come and vote. Only 52 votes were cast at Whisler.

Norman Godden, Leistville, has started his rose garden. He now has three roses. All of them are on the list recommended by Pickaway County rosarians.

According to one rosarian we heard on the Green Thumb program, roses may be planted up to June 1. And potted roses may be planted anytime.

The wisteria vine at the Lawrence Johnsons, 322 S. Pickaway St., has passed the second floor and is up on the roof-top. It completely covers one end of the house. When one steps on the porch the fragrance is delightfully sweet. Honey bees really go for wisteria blooms.

Mrs. Jim Trimmer, Route 4, had beautiful Red Emperor tulips one year. She thinks she over-fertilized them with barnyard manure because the next year not one showed up.

George Abraham, author of "The Green Thumb Handbook" says not to use manure on tulips because it spreads botytis blight.

Actually, Red Emperor tulips are not considered permanent bulbs. They'll peter out in a couple of years. For permanence plant narcissus.

We never heard of pineapple mushrooms before this year. Charlie Pickleseimer found a couple in our woods. They are edible and very good, according to Helen Stant, Charlie is from Williamsport.

Mrs. Claude Crawford, Whisler, said her son and daughter-in-law, Gene and Frances Crawford, Kingston, had also found pineapple mushrooms.

There is some discussion among mushroom hunters as to whether or not pineapple, beefheart and elephant ear mushrooms are the same. Some think yes, others no.

Mrs. Irvin Kohler, Route 1, Laurelville, reports a beautiful combination of bulbs growing in her yard. She had daffodils, red tulips and purple iris blooming at the same time. She has a colored picture of them.

Myra Rader said the wisteria tree in the yard of the Mader place, 438 E. Main St., was putting on a performance of real grandeur this year. The tree was given to her mother as a Mother's Day Gift by her brother and his wife.

Other wisterias I remember with pleasure are the vines belonging to Dr. Edwin Shane, Northridge Road, Dr. W. L. Sprouse, 361 E. Main, Meinhardt Crites, 139 W. Franklin, and the vine at the old Marfield place across from the library.

Curiously enough I have never seen the Emmitt Barnhart wisteria in blossom. It shades the patio at Barnharts. It is attractive even when it is not in blossom.

The most glorious wisteria vine I know in this locality is the one at Adena climbing a big tree in the garden. Several years ago it was severely winter-killed. In fact wisteria is frequently killed by frosty temperatures.

The Floyd Huffers at Whisler have a row of fine old shrubs. Blooming now are the white lilac, the white bridal wreath and yellow spice bush. Their handsome flowering quince has started fading and their mockorange is just in bud. All these shrubs have quite a bit of age to them.

Frances Hunter, Whisler grocery store owner, planted some cardinal shrub. This is a red wigelia and will no doubt give the Hunters pleasure for many years to come.

The big wading bird, a blue heron I think, has returned to our pond three times now. He is quite shy. When I open the back door, although he is all the way across the pond, he takes wing and flaps slowly across the sky.

The swallows have returned. When it looks as though fish are jumping out of the pond all you need do is look again. Then you will see it's the swallows diving down to the surface of the water and splashing. Swallows are the original dive bombers.

Kingwood Center Gardens Are Always in Gay Blossom

Tulips are blooming right on time this year at Kingwood Center, Mansfield.

The early ones faded the first week of May. But the 60,000 bulbs imported from Holland will include many late blooming tulips.

One may count on tulips through the third week of this month. But according to Kingwood Center officials, the end of the flowering season is merely the beginning of another show.

Once the flowering season is under way at Kingwood the show continues through the first frosts of autumn.

... FOLLOWING the tulip display comes the iris, the peonies, the lilies, roses, summer annuals, daylilies, gladiolus, dahlias, and finally the chrysanthemums.

is bordered on both sides with pheasant eye narcissus. The Eagleson home is Cape Cod in feeling. It is a quaint and beautiful sight.

Merle Sharp, who lives in one of the most attractive of farm homes all surrounded by magnificent old trees, is not content with the old shrubs. Each year he adds something that will enhance the beauty of the place later on. A sweetgum tree, a mountain ash and a blue spruce have all been planted more or less recently. The old Sharp home is in Pickaway County about a mile from the Ross County line road. Kings-ton may be seen in the distance.

Be sure to look at the buck-eye tree in the front lawn at the Kearn's Rest Home, 461 N. Court St. Last year it was a pale and beautiful pink. Very pale but nonetheless it was pink. This is a big tree, but I had not noticed it before.

Pure White Marigold Is Still Sought

Surely this is the year that some gardener will grow a white marigold!

And we hope it will be a Pickaway County contestant who wins the $10,000 offered again by Burpee Seed Co.

The company has sponsored this contest for almost a decade. The marigolds keep getting whiter but thus far no contestant has sent in seeds that will produce a snow white marigold that is at least 2½ inches across.

The garden editor has spotted several cream colored marigolds in local gardens. This could be the year that the lucky flower makes its appearance.

IF A GARDENER grows a white marigold which he enters in the contest it will be understood that he will not give or sell white marigold seeds to anybody else.

All seeds are to be sent to the W. Atlee Burpee Co. Philadelphia, Pa. The company requests that the contestant include at least 100 seeds and that they be sent before Dec. 31, 1965.

Seeds will be planted on the Burpees Floradale Farms and will be judged by a company horticulturist. Gardeners are requested not to send seeds from a marigold that is not white. The company has two selections of almost white marigolds. It is from these that the company is certain the white marigold will come.

The marigold, new for 1965, called "Hopeful," is, in the estimation of the experts more likely to produce a white offspring.

They are offering another, known as "Miracle Marigold" which is made up of seeds from the Nearest-to-White selections. Win or lose you'll have some magnificent flowers. And you may be the lucky one. You may produce the $10,000 white marigold.

Sino-Soviet Split Cited By Harriman

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ambassador W. Averell Harriman has blamed the situation in the Dominican Republic on a Soviet-Chinese ideological split where both sides "are attempting to prove its methods promise the fastest and surest road to communism."

Harriman told a student convocation here:

"Moscow seemingly wants to outdo in Latin America what Peking is trying to achieve in the Far East."

"The most recent example is in the Dominican Republic where Cuban-trained Communist activists infiltrated and exploited a democratically motivated rebellion."

Harriman, speaking on the Chinese-Soviet split, said the competition between the two countries "is increasing the dangers to the free world."

The roving ambassador, who returned last week from a tour of eight Latin American countries in an attempt to explain the U.S. position in the Dominican Republic, said he found uniform agreement on two subjects: President Johnson's stated objectives for creating conditions in the Dominican Republic to permit free elections, and the need to strengthen the Organization of American States peace making procedures.

Harriman spoke to more than 1,000 students at a downtown hotel. The event was sponsored by the Ohio Collegiate Association on World Affairs, a private group representing several Ohio colleges.

Disaster of 'Big Ben' Carrier Of 20 Years Ago Is Remembered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty years ago this month, the nation learned of one of its most grievous losses of World War II.

A terribly battered and burned aircraft carrier, the Franklin, arrived in New York harbor, under her own power, after a roundabout cruise from the Pacific, on May 17, 1945.

With the return to home port, the Navy disclosed that the Franklin, a huge Essex-class carrier, had been hit by Japanese bombs 60 miles off Japan the preceding March 19, and had been turned into an exploding ammunition dump.

Dominican 'Second Capital' Is Eerily Silent at Dusk

SANTIAGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Every evening at sundown this "second capital" of the tortured little Dominican Republic becomes suddenly, eerily silent.

For almost three weeks a "toque de queda" — a tight curfew — has been in effect from 6 p. m. until morning.

Santiago is a city of restlessness, of anxiety, of worry about when the next blow will fall. The fighting, the bloodshed, the excitement has been in Santo Domingo.

But there is more to the Dominican Republic than Santo Domingo, and the rest of the nation has suffered from the impact of the events in the capital.

The economy of Santiago, Puerto Plata, the nation's second port, La Vega and others in the breadbasket area of the republic has been hard hit. It had been in trouble even before the explosion in the capital. Now it faces prospects of crisis and possibly violence should the situation in Santo Domingo remain long unresolved.

The April 24 coup in the capital — staged in the name of constitutionalism and with the announced intention of restoring elected President Juan Bosch to the office from which he was ousted in 1963 — was hailed by crowds in the streets of Santiago with noisy jubilation. Then came the reckoning.

In a manner which suggested to many the hand of leftist extremists of the Castro stamp, crowds of young men possibly 2,000 strong marched toward the Fortaleza, the armed forces headquarters. As crowds did in Santo Domingo, these youngsters loudly demanded arms.

Passions were worked up to a fever pitch by Radio Norte. Young men regarding the word constitution with sentiment and emotion were exhorted in violent terms to break into the army headquarters if necessary and seize weapons.

If they had succeeded, there would have been a bloodbath in Santiago, say those in a position to know. They almost did. It was touch and go while army

In eight hours of hell, 724 men were lost. An additional 265 were wounded.

One of the Marine pilots aboard the "Big Ben" when the enemy bombs hit was Lt. Carroll K. Faught, who was listed on the official records as lost in action but actually survived and is now a government official.

But Faught was the only pilot in his ready room to live. He showed up at Mare Island, Calif., less one leg, some three months after the disaster.

Faught now is special assistant to the undersecretary of commerce and director of the office of emergency transportation.

Faught recalls that on the morning of March 19, 1945, the Franklin's aircraft and crews were preparing to launch a fighter sweep over Japan when an observation plane reported sighting the enemy battleship Yamato steaming out of the Bay of Japan.

Orders were changed. Big Ben's pilots were to get the Yamato. This meant a delay in takeoff to permit briefing of crews on new navigation information, and changing of the aircraft armament.

It was this delay in launching that led to the disaster.

As it happened, most of the Franklin's planes were still on the flight deck, loaded with bombs, rockets, torpedoes and machine-gun ammunition, when a lone Japanese dive bomber — its approach unnoticed — streaked down through the early morning haze.

The Japanese plane dropped two armor-piercing 500-pound bombs. One hit near the forward elevator and the other on the aft part of the ship. Both sank deep into her before they exploded.

Faught recalls that the pilots of his squadron were in Ready Room 5, being briefed on the new mission, when the first bomb exploded on the deck directly below.

He said the floor of the room rose like a giant mushroom, and crushed every other pilot there against the ceiling.

Faught was fortunate enough to be standing close to a wall, looking at a map. But both legs and his right arm were broken

Faught was fortunate enough to be standing close to a wall, looking at a map. But both legs and his right arm were broken in the first blast. Faught described his experience later, in a letter to his mother in Laramie, Wyo., in these terms:

"So I crawled out on the catwalk. I sat there for a while and there were explosions that bounced me up and down.

"I didn't have a life jacket, but when the fire started getting out where we were, I turned to Jones and said, 'I'm going over,' and I jumped.

"It was 85 feet to the water and I thought I never would hit but it wasn't as bad as I thought it would be. The water was pretty cold, but not bad.

"I swam around a while and then I found a seat cushion out of one of the planes and I hung onto it.

"There were guys all around me drowning and there wasn't a thing I could do but watch. After 2½ hours, I was picked up by a destroyer named the Marshall.

"It's the best ship in the whole Navy. Boy, was I glad to see it.

"Well, the next day we transferred to a cruiser. They had a hospital and three swell doctors; one of them was an orthopedist which was really lucky.

"My left leg didn't seem to have any circulation. After four days they operated on it and found the artery was dead and shattered, so the next day they told me about it.

"The doctor said it would have to come off at the knee and I said, 'Okay, if it's dead, it's dead.'

Commanders of other ships braved the explosions and fire to move in close, pick up survivors and help fight the flames.

Radio Norte was dismantled and put out of business. The curfew was clamped on the city.

The World Today

By STERLING F. GREEN
(For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Wilma Soss was lugged bodily out of the Communications Satellite Corp. stockholders meeting Tuesday — screaming, protesting and waving at the cameras — some kind of an era ended.

Or maybe an era began.

The tycoons of American industry seem to be fighting back, after years of being harassed by small groups of perennial hecklers.

Across the land, board chairmen have taken a brace. Many are firmly insisting, for instance, that stockholders talk about the corporate business under discussion. And that they wait for their turn to speak. And that they let other stockholders get a word in edgewise.

For the board chairman, this takes some kind of courage. His company's "stockholder relations" are as important as its public relations. Every management wants to be considered kind, attentive and responsive to questions and complaints, even if the complainer owns only one share.

The little stockholder, in short, has a mighty voice. But managements and rank and file stockholders have been showing irritation when, year after year, at every annual meeting of every big company, the loudest voices are also nonstop, out of order, irrelevant and sometimes augmented by tin horns and whistles.

Seven months ago investment banker Sidney J. Weinberg decided it was time to speak up. (It's fairly safe for him now; at 73 he holds only five major directorships, having resigned 20 or 30.) He made a speech to about 100 corporation chairmen and presidents at the Business Council meeting in Hot Springs, Va.

"The chief cause of this deterioration, in my opinion, are a relatively few publicity-seeking characters who attend stockholders' meetings primarily to ask impertinent, irrelevant, sometimes abusive questions," Weinberg said.

"I think this kind of behavior must be stopped right now before stockholders lose respect for management."

The notoriety won by some hecklers, he said, has encouraged newcomers to take up the hobby.

Today, Weinberg reports, a good many board chairmen are firmly squelching the disorderly. Meetings have regained some decorum. "The situation is much improved," he says.

Indeed, even Mrs. Soss, the out-heard voice of the Federation of Women Stockholders in American Business and such other noted meeting-goers as Lewis Gilbert and Evelyn Davis have met some setbacks lately.

Last September, at Comsat's first annual meeting, Gilbert, Mrs. Soss and horn-tooting Mrs. Davis squabbled with each other for the floor, shouted when their microphones were cut off and incensed 1,500 other stockholders to the point of booing, jeering and clapping to drown them out.

They helped prolong the meeting for nine hours, and were still there when most other shareholders had given up and gone home.

On Tuesday, blue-uniformed Pinkerton special police were much in evidence at Comsat's second stockholders' meeting. When Mrs. Soss' first speech was ruled out of order, setting off a clamor by Gilbert and Mrs. Davis, the Pinkertons moved in.

When Mrs. Soss declined to leave under her own power, a husky Pinkerton picked her up and carried her down the aisle and out the door. Two Pinkertons propelled Gilbert out the same exit.

NEW YORK (AP) — Genie Chance, wife of an Anchorage, Alaska, automobile dealer and mother of three children, had the kind of free-wheeling every broadcast journalist dreams about.

As a regular reporter for an Anchorage radio station 14 months ago, her beat covered an area of about 18,000 square miles. She chased police cars and fire engines in Anchorage, but sometimes found herself with camera and tape recorder, aboard a crab boat en route to a remote Eskimo village; in a helicopter covering troops training for arctic warfare; in a plane with smoke jumpers fighting a 10,000-acre tundra fire.

Under such circumstances, it was ironic that Genie Chance's biggest story broke when she was riding quietly down an Anchorage street in her automobile. It was on March 27, 1964, and all of a sudden her car began to bounce.

"I thought at first it was a flat tire," she recalls. "Then I saw people running out of buildings and looking up — and buildings literally began to wave."

It was the great Alaskan earthquake. Mrs. Chance drove immediately — automatically — to the city's public safety building (which was anything but safe after the quake) and using the broadcasting equipment in her automobile remained on duty continuously for 59 hours. She sent out news to a city and countryside whose telephone communications were cut by disaster, organized ham radio operators, gathered rescue information, reunited separated families and helped set up public shelters and rescue teams.

In recognition of her level-headed marathon, Texas-born Mrs. Chance recently was given the top "Golden Mike" award of a national women's magazine (McCalls).

"Some of the things I saw are memories you want to ush out of your mind," she says. "But others you want to remember. I found that I was getting on with my job in an emergency the best I could—but 10 days later, I had a big reaction — hysterics and a good cry. My husband, thank heavens, was very sympathetic."

CBS, elated with the success of the first Barbra Streisand special program, has scheduled a second one for next October.

The re-run of NBC's "The Louvre," originally scheduled for Friday night, has been moved to June 8, thus opening up an hour for Soviet film of the most recent cosmonauts on their space adventure.

Maureen O'Sullivan Wins Fight for Film Comeback

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "It was a good thing for me to learn that I could carry my own weight," reflected Maureen O'Sullivan, here for the film version of the role she created but never expected to play.

Out at Warner Brothers Miss O'Sullivan and Paul Ford are doing a replay for their Broadway smash, "Never Too Late." For her it is a big step in the long road back from the shattering of her life with the death two years ago of her husband, director John Farrow.

The actress was left with six children to support — her eldest, Michael, had been killed in a plane crash in 1958. Farrow had earned good money during his career, and so had she. But not enough remained to bring up her children the way she wanted.

She had married the dashing Farrow in 1936, when she was starring for MGM — most indelibly as Jane to Johnny Weissmuller's Tarzan. When her contract was up during the war, Farrow persuaded her to end her career.

But through the years she didn't neglect her profession. She studied new styles of acting on the screen and stored up ideas for future use.

Miss O'Sullivan's career remained in quiescence until 2½ years ago, when she encountered Pat O'Brien at a cocktail party. He urged her to consider doing a play at the Drury Lane Theater in Chicago. "I discussed it with John and he encouraged me to do it," she said. "I think he must have known he was going to die and he realized I would have to return to work to support the children."

The engagement was a splendid success and led to many play offers, including "Never Too Late." Early during the

House Eyes Clerics; Liquor Sale Expanded

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio House considered preachers today in a sharp turn from an unprecedented Senate session at which the sale of liquor on Sunday was approved.

House members were to vote on a measure permitting ordained ministers to obtain statewide licenses to perform marriages. Rep. Keith McNamara, R-Franklin, and others sponsored the proposal which provides for the licenses to be issued by the secretary of state.

Under present law, ministers obtain county licenses from probate courts and are limited to conducting ceremonies in their home counties.

The Sunday liquor bill cleared the Senate Wednesday, marking the first time in history such a bill has passed either house, although they have been introduced on numerous occasions.

The measure by three Cleveland Democrats and a Cincinnati Republican would permit, under local option, sale of liquor between the hours of 1 p.m. and 12 midnight on Sunday.

Sen. David T. Matia, D-Cuyahoga, led the floor fight for the bill which drew heated debate before receiving a 17-15 vote, the exact minimum needed for passage.

Matia and other sponsors argued the measure is needed to attract convention business, much of which they said is going to other states, such as New York, California, and Pennsylvania, which permit liquor sales on Sunday.

Sens. Oakley C. Collins, R-Lawrence, Jim Thorpe, R-Stark, and Robin Turner, R-Seneca, were the chief opponents. They claimed the people of Ohio are satisfied with present liquor laws and have not asked for "another day to drink."

The bill now goes to the rural-minded House, where its chances appear somewhat bleak.

The Senate, in other business, approved a House-passed measure designed to expand Ohio's college student loan program. It would extend to state-chartered building and loan firms and credit unions the authority to grant state-guaranteed loans to students. At present, such authority is restricted to banks.

Also passed by the upper chamber was a measure permitting 18-year-olds to take examinations for fire and police department positions. Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-Hamilton, said the bill would leave unchanged the requirement that new policemen and firemen must be 21 before they actually are employed.

The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill authorizing use of reflectorized strips on the rear of horse-drawn vehicles along with a red light.

Seven bewildered Amish men looked on from the House gallery as the measure received a 128-1 vote. Rep. Charles F. Kurfess, R-Wood, was the dissenter.

A measure authorizing Toledo, Akron, and Cincinnati to issue bonds and short-term notes for construction projects received 124-3 House approval.

Also approved by the House was a measure asking Congress to authorize acquisition by the state of the Broadview Heights Veterans Administration Hospital near Cleveland for use as a hospital for mentally retarded children.

House members voted also to authorize forfeiture of cemetery lots on which upkeep has not been paid for 21 years and to place in the state's general fund about $50,000 a year now going into the aviation license fund from airplane license fees.

Judgments Filed against Store Here

Judgments exceeding $30,000 have been filed in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court against a local hardware store and its owner-operator.

The George Worthington Co., a Cleveland firm, filed a $20,067.31 judgment against the Circleville Hardware Co. and its owners, Hal D. and Alice Dickinson. Another for $10,154.44 was filed against the firm by Pickaway County for personal property taxes.

The county suit, filed on cross petition, is seeking collection of taxes for the years 1958 through 1964. The Cleveland firm is seeking judgment based on a cognovit note dated July 25, 1964.

On May 5, the George Worthington Co. asked the court for appointment of a receiver for the Circleville Hardware Co. to take over assets and run the business to satisfy the creditor.

The court, Judge William Ammer, appointed former sheriff Walton W. Spangler to serve as receiver with the consent of Dickinson. Bond was set for Spangler at $100,000 and he was authorized to employ attorneys to represent the receivership. J. W. Adkins Jr. and Emmitt Crist, both local lawyers, were appointed for this purpose.

A court entry was also placed on record authorizing Spangler, as receiver, to employ necessary help to continue the business to the satisfaction of the creditor.

The court also made an entry closing the store the week of May 10 to permit an inventory of stock to be taken in preparation for a liquidating sale to begin May 17.

A final entry made in the suit provides that all creditors must file claims with Spangler by July 1, 1965.

Until barbed wire was introduced — about 1880 — the great plains were an open area dominated by cattlemen who could control the natural waterholes with hired gunmen.

'Hire a Veteran Week' Set For Observance May 16-22

Mayor Ben H. Gordon in cooperation with local veteran leaders has proclaimed the week of May 16-22 as "Hire a Veteran Week" in the Circleville area.

Veteran officials promoting the observance, which will be observed throughout the state, include James P. Shea, Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer; Ernil Stonerock, commander of the local American Legion Post; and Merle Thomas, of the local Veterans of Foreign Wars lodge.

In proclaiming the week-long observance, Mayor Gordon noted that veterans of World Wars I and II and the Korean Conflict were all selected men and they qualified to do a tremendous job for our country in 1917, 1941 and 1960.

"Today, they comprise more than half of the male labor market and are well qualified to do the many jobs in civilian life. Considering these facts, the

New Political Pattern Developing in Germany

BONN, Germany (AP) — A new political pattern may be emerging in West Germany to give Willy Brandt and his Socialist party their first taste of national power in over a generation.

The new setup would be a partnership between the Socialists and Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's Christian Democrats, who have dominated the country ever since West Germany acquired its own government after World War II. The Socialists have not held a national Cabinet post since before Adolf Hitler took power in the early 1930s.

A shift probably would mean Brandt's taking over either the chancellorship or the Foreign Ministry this fall. He now is mayor of West Berlin.

Many Christian Democrats oppose such a partnership, particularly ex-Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, who still is the nominal party leader. But they may be forced into it, and Erhard has tried not to shut the door on it.

Just this kind of partnership seems to be forming in Lower Saxony, one of West Germany's largest states. Under the parliamentary system practiced there, coalitions are necessary when no single party controls a clear majority in the legislature.

The same system applies on state and national levels.

In Lower Saxony the Socialists happen to be the biggest party, but they have no majority. They have been governing with the help of the smaller Free Democratic party.

Now this local team is breaking up. The Free Democrats are refusing to go along on an agreement with the Vatican about Church schools, since they traditionally stand for separation of church and state.

With national elections coming up Sept. 19, many Free Democrats also feel they can make a better showing by going into opposition.

George Diederichs, the Socialist prime minister of Lower Saxony, is having to turn to the Christian Democrats. He is offering them a handful of influential Cabinet posts in return for their support in the legislature, where they will be glad to approve the agreement with the Vatican.

On the national level, the Christian Democrats are the biggest party in Parliament, but they have no clear majority either. They too have been in partnership with the Free Democrats.

The strength of the three parties may be different after the election. At the moment, Brandt's Socialists seem ahead of the Christian Democrats. They may turn out to be the biggest party in the new Parliament.

Even if the Christian Democrats hold their present plurality, Erhard and his friends may decide that their partnership with the Free Democrats on the national level will not give them enough votes. It is not considered practical in Germany to govern with a tiny majority, as Prime Minister Harold Wilson does in Britain.

Partnerships between Socialists and Christian Democrats are unusual in West German state governments. If leaders in Lower Saxony can make it work, it may take on a new allure in national politics.

House Eyes Clerics; Liquor Sale Expanded

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio House considered preachers today in a sharp turn from an unprecedented Senate session at which the sale of liquor on Sunday was approved.

House members were to vote on a measure permitting ordained ministers to obtain statewide licenses to perform marriages. Rep. Keith McNamara, R-Franklin, and others sponsored the proposal which provides for the licenses to be issued by the secretary of state.

Under present law, ministers obtain county licenses from probate courts and are limited to conducting ceremonies in their home counties.

The Sunday liquor bill cleared the Senate Wednesday, marking the first time in history such a bill has passed either house, although they have been introduced on numerous occasions.

The measure by three Cleveland Democrats and a Cincinnati Republican would permit, under local option, sale of liquor between the hours of 1 p.m. and 12 midnight on Sunday.

Sen. David T. Matia, D-Cuyahoga, led the floor fight for the bill which drew heated debate before receiving a 17-15 vote, the exact minimum needed for passage.

Matia and other sponsors argued the measure is needed to attract convention business, much of which they said is going to other states, such as New York, California, and Pennsylvania, which permit liquor sales on Sunday.

Sens. Oakley C. Collins, R-Lawrence, Jim Thorpe, R-Stark, and Robin Turner, R-Seneca, were the chief opponents. They claimed the people of Ohio are satisfied with present liquor laws and have not asked for "another day to drink."

The bill now goes to the rural-minded House, where its chances appear somewhat bleak.

The Senate, in other business, approved a House-passed measure designed to expand Ohio's college student loan program. It would extend to state-chartered building and loan firms and credit unions the authority to grant state-guaranteed loans to students. At present, such authority is restricted to banks.

Also passed by the upper chamber was a measure permitting 18-year-olds to take examinations for fire and police department positions. Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-Hamilton, said the bill would leave unchanged the requirement that new policemen and firemen must be 21 before they actually are employed.

The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill authorizing use of reflectorized strips on the rear of horse-drawn vehicles along with a red light.

Seven bewhiskered Amish men looked on from the House gallery as the measure received a 128-1 vote. Rep. Charles F. Kurfess, R-Wood, was the dissenter.

A measure authorizing Toledo, Akron, and Cincinnati to issue bonds and short-term notes for construction projects received 124-3 House approval.

Also approved by the House was a measure asking Congress to authorize acquisition by the state of the Broadview Heights Veterans Administration Hospital near Cleveland for use as a hospital for mentally retarded children.

House members voted also to authorize forfeiture of cemetery lots on which upkeep has not been paid for 21 years and to place in the sale's general fund about $50,000 a year now going into the aviation license fund from airplane license fees.

Judgments Filed against Store Here

Judgments exceeding $30,000 have been filed in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court against a local hardware store and its owner-operator.

The George Worthington Co., a Cleveland firm, filed a $20,067.31 judgment against the Circleville Hardware Co. and its owners, Hal D. and Alice Dickinson. Another for $10,154.44 was filed against the firm by Pickaway County for personal property taxes.

The county suit, filed on cross petition, is seeking collection of taxes for the years 1958 through 1964. The Cleveland firm is seeking judgment based on a cognovit note dated July 25, 1964.

On May 5, the George Worthington Co. asked the court for appointment of a receiver for the Circleville Hardware Co. to take over assets and run the business to satisfy the creditor.

The court, Judge William Ammer, appointed former sheriff Walton W. Spangler to serve as receiver with the consent of Dickinson. Bond was set for Spangler at $100,000 and he was authorized to employ attorneys to represent the receivership. J. W. Adkins Jr. and Emmitt Crist, both local lawyers, were appointed for this purpose.

A court entry was also placed on record authorizing Spangler, as receiver, to employ necessary help to continue the business to the satisfaction of the creditor.

The court also made an entry closing the store the week of May 10 to permit an inventory of stock to be taken in preparation for a liquidating sale to begin May 17.

A final entry made in the suit provides that all creditors must file claims with Spangler by July 1, 1965.

WF Senior Nominated for NCTE Award

Carolyn Bailey of Westfall High School has been nominated for the annual Achievement Awards Program, sponsored by the National Council of Teachers of English (NCTE).

For the eighth year, NCTE is conducting the National Awards competition to grant recognition to outstanding high school seniors for excellence in English. The writing abilities and literary awareness of each nominee will be judged by local and state committees, and NCTE will announce the winners in December, 1965.

The winners' names will be sent to every U. S. college and university director of admissions and English department chairman with the recommendation that these students be considered for scholarship assistance. Most awards finalists report that they have been admitted to the college of their choice and many have been given direct scholarship assistance.

According to James R. Squire, executive secretary of NCTE, the Awards Program is part of a comprehensive program undertaken by the council in cooperation with American high schools to encourage improvement in English language and literature at all grade levels. By stimulating interest in English studies and by supporting the improved instruction in English, the NCTE seeks to contribute to an educational program of excellence.

Fashion Musicale Sets Light Mood

By LINDA STUBBS

Although it was rather rainy and dark outside, the mood was light and cheerful inside the auditorium at Westfall High School Sunday afternoon.

The chorus, under the direction of Miss Christine Haley, presented several numbers, including "It's A Grand Night for Singing," "Colleen, Sweet One," "Hey, Look Me Over," and "Some Enchanted Evening." Three solos, "Standin' On the Corner" by Roger Clark, "Zat's How We Make Laff in Parree" by Jim Davis, and "Dream of Love" by Janie Clark added to the musical portion of the program.

The Home Economics students modeled their fashions, which they had created under the direction of their instructor, Mrs. Joanna Kister. Sportswear, the ever-popular shirt-waist dress, shifts, and formals were all represented. The fashions were narrated by Carlotta Peterson.

The afternoon was indeed a success, being well-attended by several hundred people.

200 WF Students Attend Rec Night

Two hundred students were present for a night of fun on April 29 at Westfall High School, sponsored by the cheerleaders.

The students played volleyball, basketball, badminton, and ping pong. Other activities included jumping on the trampoline, dancing, wrestling, or eating the refreshments sold by the cheerleaders.

The students and faculty feel the Co-Rec nights have been a fine opportunity for students to become better acquainted while enjoying healthful and wholesome activities.

Spring Music Show Planned Friday at TV

FRED DART

The Teays Valley Annual Spring Musical Varieties Show to be held 8 p. m. Friday will include music for people of all tastes. Included in the concert are numbers by the Concert Band, Stage Band, Brass Choir, Clarinet Choir and Mixed Chorus.

A special feature of the concert will be the guest appearance of Mr. Fred Dart baritone and trombone virtuoso from the Ohio State University faculty. Mr. Dart received his BM degree from the University of Michigan in 1956 and from 1956 to 1960 he turned with the United States Air Force Band as a noted soloist. He has taught instrumental music both in the University of Maryland and in Washington, D. C. public schools. He received his MA degree from the University of Maryland in 1963 and since then has been teaching at Ohio State University and touring as a soloist with high school bands.

The Teays Valley band has accumulated a great number of awards since it has been organized. Directed by Miss Mary Jo Gaskalla, the band has received superior ratings in the State OMEA Band Contests for the past three years. Not only does the band perform well as a group, but also there are ensembles and soloists who have done well. This year the band took six entries to the State OMEA Solo and Ensemble Contests and came home with six superior ratings.

At the concert on May 14, the public will be given the chance to hear two ensembles; the Clarinet Choir and the Brass Choir. For those with an ear for jazz, a special stage band will perform such numbers as "Miss Fine" and "More". The entire Concert Band will perform both classical and modern music, from Wagner's "Elsa's Procession to the Cathedral" to Bernstein's "West Side Story". The Mixed Chorus also gets into the swing of things singing songs like "Getting to Know You," and "Super-califragilisticexpialidocious".

All in all the concert promises to be a very exciting musical experience and anyone who comes, young and old is sure to enjoy it.

FTA Chapter Lists Officers

By SANDY BAYES

The Westfall Chapter Future Teachers of America held the election of their 1965-66 officers in April.

They are as follows: president, Steve Steinhauser; vice president, Dick Cook; secretary, Donna Keller; treasurer, Carole Bailey; historian, Peggy Reiterman; parliamentarian, Roger Clark.

The business of the FTA this year deals mainly with the organization of next year's club. A point system has been adopted to calculate the number of points each person is required to have to remain a member of the club and receive the FTA pin. The constitution has been written and approved.

A banquet for the FTA graduating seniors has been decided upon for each school year. At this banquet, seniors will be honored with awards they have achieved during their membership.

On April 24, several of the FTA members attended Career Day at Ohio State University. Despite the rainy weather, everyone had a wonderful and rewarding day.

The FTA is now in the process of sponsoring an FTA Day in which each member of the club will teach the class of their choice, taking on all the responsibilities of a teacher for that particular subject on this day.

Bowlers Have Awards Parties

Early last January the Westfall Girls Athletic Assn. decided to sponsor a bowling league. The club adviser, Mrs. Ogle, made arrangements with Logan Elm and Teays Valley Schools for Westfall GAA members to participate in their Monday afternoon league.

However, there were more volunteers than the alley at Prairie Lanes could accommodate, so two more leagues were formed, mostly consisting of Westfall students. The bowling sessions were scheduled on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons and everything rolled along smoothly for ten meetings. Team members cooperated very well and had a lot of fun in the process.

Toward the end of the bowling sessions, awards parties were planned and the Prairie Lanes management agreed to handle refreshments for a nominal fee. After everyone had his fill of coke, hamburgers and french fries, the president of each league presented the individual and team trophies and medals to the winners. Entertainment was provided by team members and some of the braver ones danced to the juke box music. Although the awards parties were held on different nights, the procedure for each was similar.

New Cheerleaders Named at Westfall

Cheerleading tryouts for Westfall varsity cheerleaders 1965-66 were held in the gymnasium.

The student body observed the girls perform several cheers before voting. Chosen were Sherry Bower, Ann Bower, Nancy Fenstermaker, Vicki Sykes, Jennifer Mowery, and Dawn Morrison. They will represent Westfall in football and basketball.

Two More Weeks Of School Remain

By JANET DeLONG AND ANITA MOATS

The last two weeks of school and you'd think that the teachers would have a heart.

It seems we're being laden down with more and more homework, or could it be that this is the time of year when seniors seem to contract that disease known as spring fever? Then it's hello sports, goodbye homework.

The thought of finals and term papers are placed in the back of our minds until the night before. Then it's cram, cram, cram, or type, type, type.

When our last day of school finally arrives, it doesn't have that certain something that we anticipated. Then at last... graduation.

As seniors, we realize that we may never see some of our classmates again. This sentimental feeling sometimes makes us feel remorseful that our high school days are coming to an end, but the thought of taking another step forward in this big world of ours is more important than anything else.

Class Play Staging Set

The Senior Class of Westfall High School will present "Washington Never Slept Here" at 8 p. m. Friday and Saturday evenings in the school auditorium.

Tickets may be purchased from students or at the door the night of both performances.

Chemistry Classes Tour Du Pont Plant

The chemistry classes of Westfall High School toured the Du Pont Plant at Circleville on April 30 in observance of Chemical Progress Week. The group left Westfall at 12:30 p. m. and was taken to Du Pont by bus with their teacher, Mr. Wright.

Upon arriving there they were separated into smaller groups and taken on an hour tour during which they were told and shown the process of making "Mylar."

After the tour they were given refreshments and shown a filmstrip. They were also told the many uses of Mylar and given some information to bring home.

This year's Braves baseball team has a 3-3 record in varsity competition. They have defeated Westfall, Unioto and Amanda. They have been defeated by Canal Winchester, Westfall and Piketon.

This season's starting line up is composed of Jeff Lutz, or Mike Spangler, pitchers; Darryl Reichelderfer, catcher; Mike Spangler or Russ Merrin, first base; Bob Stant, second base; Russ Merrin or Jeff Lutz at short stop; Tom Smith at third; Danny Dahl, left field; Rick Macklin, centerfield; and Ed Umsted, right field. Top bench strength is provided by Bill Huffman and Mike Burton, both outfielders.

This year the Braves have had excellent pitching, but a lack of hitting and an abundance of errors contributed to the Braves' early downfall. However, since the Piketon game the Braves hitting has been vastly improved and the fielding is getting steadily better.

Although the Braves were defeated in sectional play 6-5 and were involved in a disputed game at Piketon which might well have cost them the S.V.C. title, the boys are still determined to win as many games as possible and make this a winning season.

Tree Planting Held at Westfall

The students and teachers of Westfall assembled on April 30 in front of the school to plant a tree donated by the Student Council.

The band played as the students assemble outside. Gary Sharpe, president of the Student Council, gave a welcome and announced the planting of the tree. Mr. Lanman expressed a thank-you from the Board of Education.

Following the ceremony, the students returned to their regularly scheduled classes.

WF Senior Nominated for NCTE Award

Carolyn Bailey of Westfall High School has been nominated for the annual Achievement Awards Program, sponsored by the National Council of Teachers of English (NCTE).

For the eighth year, NCTE is conducting the National Awards competition to grant recognition to outstanding high school seniors for excellence in English. The writing abilities and literary awareness of each nominee will be judged by local and state committees, and NCTE will announce the winners in December, 1965.

The winners' names will be sent to every U. S. college and university director of admissions and English department chairman with the recommendation that these students be considered for scholarship assistance. Most awards finalists report that they have been admitted to the college of their choice and many have been given direct scholarship assistance.

According to James R. Squire, executive secretary of NCTE, the Awards Program is part of a comprehensive program undertaken by the council in cooperation with American high schools to encourage improvement in English language and literature at all grade levels. By stimulating interest in English studies and by supporting the improved instruction in English, the NCTE seeks to contribute to an educational program of excellence.

Fashion Musicales Sets Light Mood

By LINDA STUBBS

Although it was rather rainy and dark outside, the mood was light and cheerful inside the auditorium at Westfall High School Sunday afternoon.

The chorus, under the direction of Miss Christine Haley, presented several numbers, including "It's A Grand Night for Singing," "Colleen, Sweet One," "Hey, Look Me Over," and "Some Enchanted Evening." Three solos, "Standin' On the Corner" by Roger Clark, "Zat's How We Make Loff in Paree," by Jim Davis, and "Dream of Love," by Janie Clark added to the musical portion of the program.

The Home Economics students modeled their fashions, which they had created under the direction of their instructor, Mrs. Joanna Kister. Sportswear, the ever-popular shirtwaist dress, shifts, and formals were all represented. The fashions were narrated by Carlotta Peterson.

The afternoon was indeed a success, being well-attended by several hundred people.

200 WF Students Attend Rec Night

Two hundred students were present for a night of fun on April 29 at Westfall High School, sponsored by the cheerleaders.

The students played volleyball, basketball, badminton, and ping pong. Other activities included jumping on the trampoline, dancing, wrestling, or eating the refreshments sold by the cheerleaders.

The students and faculty feel the Co-Rec nights have been a fine opportunity for students to become better acquainted while enjoying healthful and wholesome activities.

Spring Music Show Planned Friday at TV

FRED DART

The Teays Valley Annual Spring Musical Varieties Show to be held 8 p. m. Friday will include music for people of all tastes. Included in the concert are numbers by the Concert Band, Stage Band, Brass Choir, Clarinet Choir and Mixed Chorus.

A special feature of the concert will be the guest appearance of Mr. Fred Dart baritone and trombone virtuoso from the Ohio State University faculty. Mr. Dart received his BM degree from the University of Michigan in 1956 and from 1956 to 1960 he turned with the United States Air Force Band as a noted soloist. He has taught instrumental music both in the University of Maryland and in Washington, D. C. public schools. He received his MA degree from the University of Maryland in 1963 and since then has been teaching at Ohio State University and touring as a soloist with high school bands.

The Teays Valley band has accumulated a great number of awards since it has been organized. Directed by Miss Mary Jo Gaskalla, the band has received superior ratings in the State OMEA Band Contests for the past three years. Not only does the band perform well as a group, but also there are ensembles and soloists who have done well. This year the band took six entries to the State OMEA Solo and Ensemble Contests and came home with six superior ratings.

At the concert on May 14, the public will be given the chance to hear two ensembles; the Clarinet Choir and the Brass Choir. For those with an ear for jazz, a special stage band will perform such numbers as "Miss Fine" and "More". The entire Concert Band will perform both classical and modern music, from Wagner's "Elsa's Procession to the Cathedral" to Bernstein's "West Side Story". The Mixed Chorus also gets into the swing of things singing songs like "Getting to Know You," and "Super-Califragilisticexpialidocious".

All in all the concert promises to be a very exciting musical experience and anyone who comes, young and old is sure to enjoy it.

FTA Chapter Lists Officers

By SANDY BAYES

The Westfall Chapter Future Teachers of America held the election of their 1965-66 officers in April.

They are as follows: president, Steve Steinhauser; vice president, Dick Cook; secretary, Donna Keller; treasurer, Carole Bailey; historian, Peggy Reiterman; parliamentarian, Roger Clark.

The business of the FTA this year deals mainly with the organization of next year's club. A point system has been adopted to calculate the number of points each person is required to have to remain a member of the club and receive the FTA pin. The constitution has been written and approved.

A banquet for the FTA graduating seniors has been decided upon for each school year. At this banquet, seniors will be honored with awards they have achieved during their membership.

On April 24, several of the FTA members attended Career Day at Ohio State University. Despite the rainy weather, everyone had a wonderful and rewarding day.

The FTA is now in the process of sponsoring an FTA Day in which each member of the club will teach the class of their choice, taking on all the responsibilities of a teacher for that particular subject on this day.

Bowlers Have Awards Parties

Early last January the Westfall Girls Athletic Assn. decided to sponsor a bowling league. The club adviser, Mrs. Ogle, made arrangements with Logan Elm and Teays Valley Schools for Westfall GAA members to participate in their Monday afternoon league.

However, there were more volunteers than the alley at Prairie Lanes could accommodate, so two more leagues were formed, mostly consisting of Westfall students. The bowling sessions were scheduled on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons and everything rolled along smoothly for ten meetings. Team members cooperated very well and had a lot of fun in the process.

Toward the end of the bowling sessions, awards parties were planned and the Prairie Lanes management agreed to handle refreshments for a nominal fee. After everyone had his fill of coke, hamburgers and french fries, the president of each league presented the individual and team trophies and medals to the winners. Entertainment was provided by team members and some of the braver ones danced to the juke box music. Although the awards parties were held on different nights, the procedure for each was similar.

New Cheerleaders Named at Westfall

Cheerleading tryouts for Westfall varsity cheerleaders 1965-66 were held in the gymnasium.

The student body observed the girls perform several cheers before voting. Chosen were Sherry Bower, Ann Bower, Nancy Fenstermaker, Vicki Sykes, Jennifer Mowery, and Dawn Morrison. They will represent Westfall in football and basketball.

Two More Weeks Of School Remain

By JANET DeLONG AND ANITA MOATS

The last two weeks of school and you'd think that the teachers would have a heart.

It seems we're being laden down with more and more homework, or could it be that this is the time of year when seniors seem to contract that disease known as spring fever? Then it's hello sports, goodbye homework.

The thought of finals and term papers are placed in the back of our minds until the night before. Then it's cram, cram, cram, or type, type, type.

When our last day of school finally arrives, it doesn't have that certain something that we anticipated. Then at last... graduation.

As seniors, we realize that we may never see some of our classmates again. This sentimental feeling sometimes makes us feel remorseful that our high school days are coming to an end, but the thought of taking another step forward in this big world of ours is more important than anything else.

Class Play Staging Set

The Senior Class of Westfall High School will present "Washington Never Slept Here" at 8 p. m. Friday and Saturday evenings in the school auditorium.

Tickets may be purchased from students or at the door the night of both performances.

Chemistry Classes Tour Du Pont Plant

The chemistry classes of Westfall High School toured the Du Pont Plant at Circleville on April 30 in observance of Chemical Progress Week. The group left Westfall at 12:30 p. m. and was taken to Du Pont by bus with their teacher, Mr. Wright.

Upon arriving there they were separated into smaller groups and taken on an hour tour during which they were told and shown the process of making "Mylar."

After the tour they were given refreshments and shown a filmstrip. They were also told the many uses of Mylar and given some information to bring home.

By RICK MACKLIN and MIKE SPANGLER

This year's Braves baseball team has a 3-3 record in varsity competition. They have defeated Westfall, Unioto and Amanda. They have been defeated by Canal Winchester, Westfall and Piketon.

This season's starting line up is composed of Jeff Lutz, or Mike Spangler, pitchers; Darryl Reichelderfer, catcher; Mike Spangler or Russ Merrin, first base; Bob Stant, second base; Russ Merrin or Jeff Lutz at short stop; Tom Smith at third; Danny Dahl, left field; Rick Macklin, centerfield; and Ed Umsted, right field. Top bench strength is provided by Bill Huffman and Mike Burton, both outfielders.

This year the Braves have had excellent pitching, but a lack of hitting and an abundance of errors contributed to the Braves' early downfall. However, since the Piketon game the Braves hitting has been vastly improved and the fielding is getting steadily better.

Although the Braves were defeated in sectional play 6-5 and were involved in a disputed game at Piketon which might well have cost them the S.V.C. title, the boys are still determined to win as many games as possible and make this a winning season.

Tree Planting Held at Westfall

The students and teachers of Westfall assembled on April 30 in front of the school to plant a tree donated by the Student Council.

The band played as the students assemble outside. Gary Sharpe, president of the Student Council, gave a welcome and announced the planting of the tree. Mr. Lanman expressed a thank-you from the Board of Education.

Following the ceremony, the students returned to their regularly scheduled classes.

Westfall Students Register for 1965-66

Freshmen, sophomores and juniors registered for the 1965-66 school year April 29 at Westfall High School.

Mr. Massie, the principal at Westfall, explained the different types of the curricular programs.

On April 27 the junior high schools of the Westfall District toured Westfall High School, meeting teachers and planning their freshman year. Mr. Weaver, Mr. Massie, and Mr. Lanman led groups divided into the different curricular programs through the building.

Home Runs Power Lions Win over Circleville '9'

A quartet of homeruns powered the Washington Blue Lions to a 9-4 win over Circleville yesterday on the WCH diamond.

In all the Blue Lions banged 10 hits off a trio of Circleville pitchers. Five of the blows went for extra bases.

The Tigers collected eight hits, including a triple by Joe Winner and a pair of doubles by Chet Hill. But they could not match the offensive power of the host team.

Danny Gibbs was the starter and was charged with the loss as he gave up six runs to the Blue Lions. The sophomore left hander walked three, fanned two and was touched for four hits.

JEFF STEELE, a freshman, came on in relief in the fifth inning. He walked one and allowed four hits as the Blue Lions tallied three runs in that frame.

He was relieved by Nick Nance, a senior southpaw, who shut out the winners in the final frame. Nance fanned two and was touched for two hits. Circleville started the scoring in the second inning by tallying three runs. The hosts tallied one in the same frame.

But the Blue Lions came through with another run in the third inning, four in the fourth and three in the fifth. The Tigers, on the other hand could produce only one more marker in the game.

Both teams were charged with three errors.

Gary Knisley was the winning pitcher. He walked one, fanned six and allowed five hits before giving way to Matson who finished the game.

MATSON whiffed three and allowed three hits. All the Circleville runs came while Knisley was on the mound.

The CHS Tigers are now 3-5 in the South Central Ohio League. They have lost seven games overall.

The next action for CHS comes tomorrow when league leading Hillsboro invades the Ted Lewis Park diamond. The Indians have a 6-1 record in SCO competition and are the only league team still in tournament play.

Also sporting a 6-1 record is Miami Trace, twice winners over Circleville.

Boxer Dies Of Injury After KO

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Detroit heavyweight boxer Lucien (Sonny) Banks died today from a head injury. He was knocked out Monday night in the ninth round of a fight with Leotis Martin of Philadelphia.

Banks, 24, regained consciousness after the fight, but then lapsed into unconsciousness again and was rushed to Presbyterian Hospital.

Brain surgery was performed Tuesday morning to remove a blood clot and the 207-pound fighter had been in a coma ever since.

Banks' younger brother, Jimmy, had come to Philadelphia from Detroit. Two other brothers and his parents, who live in Tupelo, Miss., survive.

Dr. Robert S. Andre, a Philadelphia neurosurgeon who performed the operation, ruled out the finishing punch as a direct cause of the subdural hematoma, or clot, in Banks' brain. He said the injury looked as though the boxer had been in an auto crash.

Banks had no record of previous head injury through boxing, although he had suffered four knockouts in 27 fights. He had won 16 of his fights with knockouts and six others with decisions.

Mets Lose Their Hard-Luck Star

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets expect little, if any, help from Ron Hunt, their hard-luck All-Star second baseman, for the remainder of the National League baseball season.

While Hunt convalesced today following a successful 1½-hour operation on his dislocated left shoulder, the club waited for Chuck Hiller, acquired from San Francisco Wednesday as a second base replacement, to arrive in New York.

Mets physician Dr. Peter LaMotte, who operated on Hunt Wednesday, said the 24-year-old infielder would be sidelined for at least three months and possibly for the rest of the season.

Hunt, chosen the Mets' most valuable player in 1963 and 1964, led the team in hitting last year with a .303 average.

Penn State's basketball team won 20 and lost 4 games last season. Princeton beat the Nittany Lions, 60-58, early in the NCAA playoffs.

Six Pound Bass Landed At Hargus

A six-pound largemouth bass yesterday was entered in the Pickaway Farmers and Sportsmen Assn. sponsored county-wide fishing contest.

The lunker was landed by Robert Stevens, Route 1. To date it is the largest bass entered in the contest which runs through November.

The bass was landed in Hargus Lake and was weighed, measured and registered in the contest at Thompson's Lakeside Supply.

The catch equals the record size bass ever landed at the lake, according to H. G. Thompson who weighed and measured the fish.

IT WAS 20½ inches long and measured 15½ inches in girth.

Other fish entered in the contest include a 3-pound 13-ounce smallmouth bass caught by Butch Edgington in Darby Creek.

The largest crappie honors go to Tivis Adkins who caught a 1-pound 12-ounce fish, according to Thompson. Mrs. George Grubb has recorded a 1-pound 4-ounce crappie in the competition. Both are Pickaway County residents.

In the competition limited to out-of-county residents fishing only in Hargus Lake, Dave Sigmond of Lancaster has a 4-pound 11-ounce largemouth bass to his credit.

A 5½-pound muskie, caught by Irvin Smith, leads the out-of-county competition in that division.

Thompson said no muskie worthy of mention has been caught by a local angler yet this year.

TACKLE BUSTER — Robert Stevens, Route 1, landed this six-pound largemouth bass shortly before noon yesterday while fishing in Hargus Lake. Stevens said he was using soft craws for bait and battled the fish about five minutes before landing it.

Chi Chi Is Tagged As Man To Beat

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Jack's Pack and Chi Chi's Banditos collide today as the $100,000 greater New Orleans Open Golf Tournament gets under way with the beefy Ohioan and the pint-sized Puerto Rican playing in the same threesome.

Masters champ Jack Nicklaus is the 6-1 choice to win the rich tourney at the plush 6,500-yard Lakewood Country Club course, but a number of the pros say Chi Chi Rodriguez as the man to beat.

The 5-foot-7 Rodriguez, who weighs a mere 120 pounds, is on a hot streak and has finished high in the tourneys preceding this one.

At the rain-plagued Colonial National Invitational, which wound up Tuesday, Chi Chi tied for third with three others.

Dodd Fischer, a senior from Eugene, Ore., posted the best individual record for Yale's 1964 golf team. He is back this spring after winning nine of 10 matches last year.

Home Runs Power Lions Win over Circleville '9'

A quartet of homeruns powered the Washington Blue Lions to a 9-4 win over Circleville yesterday on the WCH diamond.

In all the Blue Lions banged 10 hits off a trio of Circleville pitchers. Five of the blows went for extra bases.

The Tigers collected eight hits, including a triple by Joe Winner and a pair of doubles by Chet Hill. But they could not match the offensive power of the host team.

Danny Gibbs was the starter and was charged with the loss as he gave up six runs to the Blue Lions. The sophomore left hander walked three, fanned two and was touched for four hits.

JEFF STEELE, a freshman, came on in relief in the fifth inning. He walked one and allowed four hits as the Blue Lions tallied three runs in that frame.

He was relieved by Nick Nance, a senior southpaw, who shut out the winners in the final frame. Nance fanned two and was touched for two hits.

Circleville started the scoring in the second inning by tallying three runs. The hosts tallied one in the same frame.

But the Blue Lions came through with another run in the third inning, four in the fourth and three in the fifth.

The Tigers, on the other hand could produce only one more marker in the game.

Both teams were charged with three errors.

Gary Knisley was the winning pitcher. He walked one, fanned six and allowed five hits before giving way to Matson who finished the game.

MATSON whiffed three and allowed three hits. All the Circleville runs came while Knisley was on the mound.

The CHS Tigers are now 3-5 in the South Central Ohio League. They have lost seven games overall.

The next action for CHS comes tomorrow when league leading Hillsboro invades the Ted Lewis Park diamond. The

Six Pound Bass Landed At Hargus

A six-pound largemouth bass yesterday was entered in the Pickaway Farmers and Sportsmen Assn. sponsored county-wide fishing contest.

The lunker was landed by Robert Stevens, Route 1. To date it is the largest bass entered in the contest which runs through November.

The bass was landed in Hargus Lake and was weighed, measured and registered in the contest at Thompson's Lakeside Supply.

The catch equals the record size bass ever landed at the lake, according to H. G. Thompson who weighed and measured the fish.

IT WAS 20½ inches long and measured 15½ inches in girth. Other fish entered in the contest include a 3-pound 13-ounce smallmouth bass caught by Butch Edgington in Darby Creek.

The largest crappie honors go to Tivis Adkins who caught a 1-pound 12-ounce fish, according to Thompson. Mrs. George Grubb has recorded a 1-pound 4-ounce crappie in the competition. Both are Pickaway County residents.

In the competition limited to out-of-county residents fishing only in Hargus Lake, Dave Sigmond of Lancaster has a 4-pound 11-ounce largemouth bass to his credit.

A 5½-pound muskie, caught by Irvin Smith, leads the out-of-county competition in that division.

Thompson said no muskie worthy of mention has been caught by a local angler yet this year.

Boxer Dies Of Injury After KO

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Detroit heavyweight boxer Lucien (Sonny) Banks died today from a head injury. He was knocked out Monday night in the ninth round of a fight with Leotis Martin of Philadelphia.

Banks, 24, regained consciousness after the fight, but then lapsed into unconsciousness again and was rushed to Presbyterian Hospital.

Brain surgery was performed Tuesday morning to remove a blood clot and the 207-pound fighter had been in a coma ever since.

Banks' younger brother, Jimmy, had come to Philadelphia from Detroit. Two other brothers and his parents, who live in Tupelo, Miss., survive.

Dr. Robert S. Andre, a Philadelphia neurosurgeon who performed the operation, ruled out the finishing punch as a direct cause of the subdural hematoma, or clot, in Banks' brain. He said the injury looked as though the boxer had been in an auto crash.

Banks had no record of previous head injury through boxing, although he had suffered four knockouts in 27 fights. He had won 16 of his fights with knockouts and six others with decisions.

Mets Lose Their Hard-Luck Star

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets expect little, if any, help from Ron Hunt, their hard-luck All-Star second baseman, for the remainder of the National League baseball season.

While Hunt convalesced today following a successful 1½-hour operation on his dislocated left shoulder, the club waited for Chuck Hiller, acquired from San Francisco Wednesday as a second base replacement, to arrive in New York.

Mets physician Dr. Peter LaMotte, who operated on Hunt Wednesday, said the 24-year-old infielder would be sidelined for at least three months and possibly for the rest of the season.

Hunt, chosen the Mets' most valuable player in 1963 and 1964, led the team in hitting last year with a .303 average.

Penn State's basketball team won 20 and lost 4 games last season. Princeton beat the Nittany Lions, 60-58, early in the NCAA playoffs.

Time for Action Said Here To Halt Pollution

By KEN MCCREARY
FOR THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Who cares if Lake Erie and the other Great Lakes have pollution problems?"

This view certainly is not shared by over 100 top officials of the lakes - bordering states, federal, regional and local agencies who huddled in Cleveland Monday for the Governors Conference on Great Lakes Pollution, convened by Ohio Gov. James Rhodes.

Also present for the day-long "sounding-board" session were New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Mich. Governor George Romney, along with delegations from Pennsylvania, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and the province of Ontario. Four congressmen appeared to voice their views on the vast, complex problem of pollution in the big lakes.

The keynote of the conference seemed clear—ACTION. Most state speakers expressed the opinion that the problem has gotten out of hand, perhaps even into the crisis stage.

Rhodes put it this way: "We've surveyed this thing to death—it's time we in Ohio begin to focus our attention on the future of our great state." He called for a federal program similar to Appalachia, saying "we need a master plan, and it must come from the Congress."

Romney felt, "if local and state governments don't take action, the federal government is going to step in; we all ought to take a look at what we can do now, without further studies."

Numerous other possibilities were proposed to combat pollution in the Great Lakes.

Rockefeller said his state will vote in November on a $1-billion pollution-abatement bond issue and proposed that other states study his plan.

One of the most novel proposals came from New York Rep. Richard D. McCarthy. He suggested the creation of a new water supply for the Great Lakes by channeling waters which flow into Hudson Bay south across Canada into one of the Great Lakes. This, McCarthy contends, would insure a constant water level and would flush out present pollution.

Pennsylvania Rep. John P. Saylor told the conference: "If you're going to solve these problems, you're going to have to use imagination."

Ohio Congressman-at-Large Robert Sweeney put it this way: "Regional progress in the battle . . . will be the result of cooperation, on all levels."

Congressman Charles Vanik of Cleveland termed pollution in Lake Erie as "approaching the stage of being intolerable. Uniform standards of pollution control and abatement must be established."

In Ohio, the critical issue is Lake Erie, which took much of the conference spotlight, due to its high degree of pollution problems. The big lake borders almost all of the Buckeye State's northern side, and provides millions with water and recreation.

Ohio Health Director Dr. Emmett Arnold said "Lake Erie is not a cesspool. Lake Erie is in fact still a magnificent body of water with some oiled edges. It is our job to clean those oiled edges."

What was accomplished by this precedent-setting conference?

There were no recommendations; as Rhodes put it: "This was just a sounding-board session."

However, it appears that a Governor's Committee will be born to plot further action and to press the federal government for aid and funds to combat the complexities of the pollution dilemma.

Romney invited the Great Lakes governors to Detroit, June 15 to make further plans and to study a federal report on pollution of the Detroit River. In July, the matter will be placed before the National Governors' Conference in Minneapolis.

Will Lake Erie and the other Great Lakes ever be returned to a pure, unpolluted condition

we can be proud of? That's a question no one can answer—but with the eight states of the basin containing over 40 per cent of the nation's population, it's certainly a gigantic problem worthy of full-action effort.

Mrs. Ankrom Busy Person As Horse Show Secretary

The heart of any horse show is the secretary, and the center of activity during, before and after the show is the secretary's office.

The first job of Mrs. Allen Ankrom, secretary for the Circleville Kiwanis Charity Show, and her assistants, Mrs. F. P. Dunlap and Mrs. Wilbur Warner, is getting together a mailing list of several hundred names for the prize lists which are mailed nearly a month before the show.

After the mad scramble of getting the lists addressed, checked and rechecked and mailed, things really begin to happen. Some entry blanks come back with everything in order, others can't be interpreted so that necessitates further correspondence.

Stabling horses and seeing that they are properly entered in the show is only part of Mrs. Ankrom's job. She is also asked to make motel or hotel reservations for many of the people who accompany the horses.

Then, during the last few days there are phone calls night and day from people who have last minute questions or who want to change their entries. In preparation for the Kiwanis Horse Show at the Fairgrounds on May 29 and 30 Mrs. Ankrom will know and tell those who inquire where they can buy hay and horse feed in Circleville, what time stores close on Saturday, where drug stores are open and which serves the type of food preferred by the person inquiring and whether the motels can accommodate any more guests.

Bright and early May 29, Mrs. Ankrom and her committee will be moving into their office under the grandstand to accept more entries, direct people and horses of their stalls and answer more questions to help make the horses and their owners comfortable.

Kralick Set To Try To Halt Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jack Kralick will try tonight to avenge the final game of the series against the Baltimore Orioles.

The Indians dropped the first two, losing Wednesday night 4-2, despite solid relief performances by Lee Stange and Don McMahon. They allowed the Orioles only one hit in eight innings. It was the opening frame that did it.

Luis Tiant started and allowed two runs. Leadoff batter Paul Blair greeted Luis with a homer over the left field fence. Singles by Luis Aparicio, Curt Beary and Boog Powell produced another before Stange came in.

Beary scored on a sacrifice fly and the Orioles added two more on Norm Siebern's single and a sacrifice fly by Dave Johnson.

From then on, Stange and McMahon, who entered in the seventh, didn't allow a hit.

The Indians had jumped to a 2-0 lead in the first, touching starter Dave McNally for three hits. McNally allowed only two more safeties the rest of the game.

Larry Brown and Leon Wagner singled and Brown scored on Rocky Colavito's sacrifice fly. Wagner raced home on a single by Vic Davallilo. Max Alvis had been intentionally passed but Fred Whitfield truck out to end the rally.

Time for Action Said Here To Halt Pollution

FOR THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Who cares if Lake Erie and the other Great Lakes have pollution problems?"

This view certainly is not shared by over 100 top officials of the lakes — bordering states, federal, regional and local agencies who huddled in Cleveland Monday for the Governors Conference on Great Lakes Pollution, convened by Ohio Gov. James Rhodes.

Also present for the day-long "sounding-board" session were New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Mich. Governor George Romney, along with delegations from Pennsylvania, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and the province of Ontario. Four congressmen appeared to voice their views on the vast, complex problem of pollution in the big lakes.

The keynote of the conference seemed clear—ACTION. Most state speakers expressed the opinion that the problem has gotten out of hand, perhaps even into the crisis stage.

Rhodes put it this way: "We've surveyed this thing to death—it's time we in Ohio begin to focus our attention on the future of our great state." He called for a federal program similar to Appalachia, saying "we need a master plan, and it must come from the Congress."

Romney felt, "if local and state governments don't take action, the federal government is going to step in; we all ought to take a look at what we can do now, without further studies."

Numerous other possibilities were proposed to combat pollution in the Great Lakes.

Rockefeller said his state will vote in November on a $1-billion pollution-abatement bond issue and proposed that other states study his plans.

One of the most novel proposals came from New York Rep. Richard D. McCarthy. He suggested the creation of a new water supply for the Great Lakes by channeling waters which flow into Hudson Bay south across Canada into one of the Great Lakes. This, McCarthy contends, would insure a constant water level and would flush out present pollution.

Pennsylvania Rep. John P. Saylor told the conference: "If you're going to solve these problems, you're going to have to use imagination."

Ohio Congressman-at-Large Robert Sweeney put it this way: "Regional progress in the battle . . . will be the result of cooperation, on all levels."

Congressman Charles Vanik of Cleveland termed pollution in Lake Erie as "approaching the stage of being intolerable. Uniform standards of pollution control and abatement must be established."

In Ohio, the critical issue is Lake Erie, which took much of the conference spotlight, due to its high degree of pollution problems. The big lake borders almost all of the Buckeye State's northern side, and provides millions with water and recreation. Ohio Health Director Dr. Emmett Arnold said "Lake Erie is not a cesspool. Lake Erie is in fact still a magnificent body of water with some oiled edges. It is our job to clean those oiled edges."

What was accomplished by this precedent-setting conference?

There were no recommendations; as Rhodes put it: "This was just a sounding-board session."

However, it appears that a Governor's Committee will be born to plot further action and to press the federal government for aid and funds to combat the complexities of the pollution dilemma.

Romney invited the Great Lakes governors to Detroit, June 15 to make further plans and to study a federal report on pollution of the Detroit River. In July, the matter will be placed before the National Governors' Conference in Minneapolis.

Will Lake Erie and the other Great Lakes ever be returned to a pure, unpolluted condition

we can be proud of? That's a question no one can answer—but with the eight states of the basin containing over 40 per cent of the nation's population, it's certainly a gigantic problem worthy of full-action effort.

Johnson . . .

its forces in Viet Nam to a present total of about 45,000 men. No one here will rule out further escalation of the fighting.

The source of Johnson's authority to order new actions is said by administration officials to be the constitutional powers vested in the president, particularly his power as commander in chief of the armed forces.

Johnson himself believes that his own position in Vietnamese policy has been strengthened greatly by two congressional actions — a resolution adopted last August covering the use of force, and this month's special appropriation to finance expanding U.S. operations in Viet Nam.

Johnson has a well-worn copy of the August resolution which he carries in his coat pocket and pulls out to read to those who question him about his authority. The wording was worked out jointly by administration officials. There are two key sections.

The first says simply Congress "approves and supports the determination of the President, as commander in chief, to take all necessary measures to repel any armed attack against the forces of the United States and to prevent further aggression."

The second section says: "The United States regards as vital to its national interest and to world peace the maintenance of international peace and security in Southeast Asia."

"The United States is, therefore, prepared, as the President determines, to take all necessary steps, including the use of armed force, to assist any member or protocol states of the Southeast Asia Collective Defense Treaty requesting assistance in defense of its freedom."

San Francisco Cable Car 'Rule' Broken by Weaker Sex

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Tradition dies hard in this windy city, and none has been laid to rest with more wordage than the custom of the "outside step" of the dear old dinky cable cars.

Since 1873, when they first clattered up the hills of San Francisco, it has been traditional that the weaker sex — that is to say, women — should not ride the outside step.

The outside step — a 10-foot-long running board along the outside seat — was a male stronghold. The woman who tried to ride this hallowed plank was soon told off by the conductor, or by the gripman who drives the cars with long steel grips that clutch the moving cable.

But in recent weeks the outside step has been integrated — for women.

"Get 'em off!" bellowed Tom McGrath, spokesman for the Cable Car Gripmen's Union, when a college coed, Mona Hutchin, 19, dared break the ice. She insisted she could ride outside — lawfully. And so she could. In fact, so could all females. Turned out there is no law against women riding the step.

"It doesn't make any difference to me whether they ride outside," said husky John Hepburn, gripman of the Hyde Street Line.

Conductor Frank Brown agreed: "No difference to me at all," he said. "If they fall off, they fall off. Just wait, they'll start falling off." No women were on the step at the time. The main objections to their riding there are that they're weaker than men, wear skirts that can blow revealingly about in high breezes, and — besides — they're women. The objection about the skirts was based on the theory that the girls, in trying to get their wind-blown skirts down, would forget about hanging on to the railing and topple off.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Tradition dies hard in this windy city, and none has been laid to rest with more wordage than the custom of the "outside step" of the dear old dinky cable cars.
Since 1873, when they first clattered up the hills of San Francisco, it has been traditional that the weaker sex — that is to say, women — should not ride the outside step.
The outside step — a 10-foot-long running board along the outside seat — was a male stronghold. The woman who tried to ride this hallowed plank

Bible College Class Tours In Chicago

The class in Biblical Archeology at the Circleville Bible College departed today for an educational tour in Chicago.
The group, comprised of 24 persons, was to make the trip by car. The students were accompanied by the Rev. George H. Blackstone, class instructor.

The visitors are scheduled for a lecture tonight, presented by Dr. Arnold Schultz. He is chairman of the Department of The Old Testament at the Northern Baptist Seminary, Chicago.
Tomorrow the students will visit the Gutenberg Exhibit at the Chicago Bible House. They will see a full replica of the famed Gutenberg Press.

FRIDAY afternoon the Circleville group will meet with Dr. Ray Bowman of the Oriental Institute, University of Chicago. Dr. Bowman, a personal friend of Rev. Blackstone, is considered America's outstanding Assyriologist. The Institute is the largest of its kind in the Midwest.
A visit to the Chicago Museum of Natural History is on the Saturday morning schedule.

was soon told off by the conductor, or by the gripman who drives the cars with long steel grips that clutch the moving cable.
But in recent weeks the outside step has been integrated — for women.
"Get 'em off!" bellowed Tom McGrath, spokesman for the Cable Car Gripmen's Union, when a college coed, Mona Hutchin, 19, dared break the ice. She insisted she could ride outside — lawfully.

And so she could. In fact, so could all females. Turned out there is no law against women riding the step.
"It doesn't make any difference to me whether they ride outside," said husky John Hepburn, gripman of the Hyde Street Line.
Conductor Frank Brown agreed: "No difference to me at all," he said. "If they fall off, they fall off. Just wait, they'll start falling off."

No women were on the step at the time. The main objections to their riding there are that they're weaker than men, wear skirts that can blow revealingly aloft in high breezes, and — besides — they're women. The objection about the skirts was based on the theory that the girls, in trying to get their wind-blown skirts down, would forget about hanging on to the railing and topple off.
